ST. CLAIR FLATS CANAL—PITTSBURGH A PORT OF ENTRY.

Mr. CHANDLER, from the Committee on Commerce, reported without amendment a bill for deepening the St. Clair Flats Canal to sixteen feet; also the House bill to make Pittsburgh, Pa., a port of entry and delivery.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

Mr. CARPENTER then spoke on what he termed the "unconstitutionality of the civil service reform scheme."

He read an extract from the report of the Commission charging that under the present system the appointing power is often subjected to threats and blandishments of personal solicitation, and said it was a base and malignant libel on the leading members of the Republican party in Congress. He had been told by a high authority that only two persons had demanded appointments in terms that could be called insulting or disrespectful; that those two were high in the legislative department of the Government, and that having had their applications refused on account of unfitness, the candidates in both cases being relations of the applicants, were now high champions of civil service reform.

Recurring to the competitive examination system, he said he did not mean to decry learning. He thought that persons who had not the advantages of education in youth were more likely than others to appreciate its advantages fully, and he belonged to that class. Why, said he, if I were a candidate for the position of copying clerk in one of the departments, and should go before an examining board of a chemical turn of mind, I should certainly be rejected. Although I write a fair hand, and can copy papers with great speed and accuracy, I know no more of chemicals than I know of the pearly gates and golden streets of heaven—[laughter,] and I never expect to; I mean I never expect to know chemistry. I do expect to know more of the pearly gates and golden streets; for I understand that admittance there does not depend upon a competitive examination. [Laughter.]

In conclusion, Mr. Carpenter said there was a special reason why the scheme should not be adopted at this time. At the breaking out of the war patriotic fathers sent their sons to the army, while others less patriotic sent theirs to school; and now if this system were adopted, the sons of the first class, who were fighting for their country while the others were remaining at school or college, would be excluded from public office because they did not know all about the fluctuations of the tides or how near the moon comes to the earth, or the names of the four principal rivers that flow into the Caspian sea. [Laughter.]

Mr. TRUMBULL wished to say a few words on this subject, but not on behalf of the competitive examination system. I am certainly in favor of civil service reform, that shall save this Government from being plundered of one-fourth of the revenue of the country; and it is sad to me to reflect that the Senator from Wisconsin now takes a position not against any of the particular rules, but against a system which would correct it; that he stands up here in the face of an official document prepared by careful and considerate friends of the administration, by its best friends, which states that one-fourth of your entire revenue, more than ninety million of dollars, is wasted in consequence of a system, the correction of which the Senator from Wisconsin (Carpenter) now opposed.

Mr. SHERMAN—What document is that?

Mr. TRUMBULL—It is the official statement made by the Civil Service Commission.

Mr. CARPENTER—I have no desire to become the special champion of that Board, but what they do say is that about one quarter of the revenue is wasted, and they do not know how much of that is chargeable to the Civil Service.

Mr. TRUMBULL—Well, we will see what they do say. I am willing to have it read.

Mr. TRUMBULL here read from the report as follows: "It is not easy to complete in figures the exact economical difference between a good and bad system of civil service. It is necessarily a matter of inference and of comparison between the probable operation of a careless and careful method, but it is calculated by those who here made a careful study of all the facts that one-fourth of the revenue of the United States is annually lost in its collection, and for a large part of that loss a system of service which is fatally unsound may reasonably be held responsible."

Mr. SHERMAN—I wish to ask the Senator whether he knows that the whole expense of collecting the revenue, internal and external, is less than five per cent.

Mr. TRUMBULL—If the Senator from Ohio will devote his attention to the investigation now going on in New York, I think he will find how a great deal of the revenue is lost.

Mr. SHERMAN—I will inform the Senator that I have not only given my attention to that investigation, but I have joined in reporting a bill, to which I hope to call the attention of the Senate in a few days, and which will entirely cure the abuses which have occurred at New York.

Mr. TRUMBULL—I shall be very happy to concur with the Senator in the passage of that bill, which is to correct all abuses. The Senator from Wisconsin (Carpenter) passed a high eulogium upon the character of the President, and at the same time informed us that the President had put these theories, as he calls them, into operation, for the purpose of rendering them obvious, in expectation that the people would soon cry "enough." Sir, I think better of the chief magistrate of the United States than to suppose that under the authority given him to adopt rules and regulations for the reform of the civil service he has adopted such rules as will bring civil service reform into contempt.

Mr. TRUMBULL here controverted Mr. Carpenter's views as to the extent and importance of the President's powers under the Constitution. It was true, he saw that the appointing power belonged to the Executive, and the great evil was that members of the legislative department of the Government had gradually usurped that power and assumed to dictate appointments, and the great aim of civil service reform was to restore to the Executive his constitutional power of appointment, instead of taking it away. Does not the Senator from Wisconsin know that although the Constitution and law vest the appointing power in the Executive and in heads of departments? Yet virtually that power is not exercised by them, but is controlled by Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Mr. CARPENTER—I know nothing about the patronage of Illinois; but as to that part of the patronage of Wisconsin of which I have any knowledge, I answer that I do not know that to be a fact.

Mr. TRUMBULL—Well, I can not speak as to the rule in Wisconsin; but this report states that this is the general practice, and the President endorses this report, and sends it to Congress. The trouble is not in the want of scholarship in our public officers. It arises from the appointments being controlled by Congressmen, and I introduced a bill some time ago designed to correct that evil. This report is the work of gentlemen of high character, great industry, and laborious research, who have inquired into the evils that exist under the present system, and have set them forth here with great clearness and force, and if they can not be corrected by a competent examination system, let us apply some other system; but let them certainly be corrected. This report comes to us endorsed by the President.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN called the attention of Mr. Trumbull to the fact that the President could not be held responsible for all the statements of the report, as in his message, in transmitting it, he said that he was desirous of bringing out the fact to the attention of Congress before recess, and that he had not sufficiently examined the report to suggest requisite legislation.

Mr. TRUMBULL—Does the Senator believe that the President did not read this report?

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN—The President says he had not time to examine the report.

Mr. TRUMBULL—To examine it for what purpose? to suggest legislative action? But does the Senator from New Jersey (Frelinghuysen) impute to the President even by implication such ignorance as to send us an important report without having read it, or without knowing what statements were in it? The idea to me is inconceivable. The President must have read it, or he could not have said that it embodied a policy long needed. He had read it and understood it, and the report comes here endorsed as to its essential facts, so far as they relate to the present mode of appointments, by the President himself, who has been for nearly three years in a position to know what the present system is. Even the Senator from Wisconsin himself endorsed the statement in this report when he said that two persons high in the legislative departments of the Government had insulted or threatened the President because he would not make certain appointments dictated by them. I wish the Senator had told us who they were that threatened the President; for then he would have given a still more striking illustration of the system which civil service reform is designed to correct.

In reference to the appointment to office, I believe that some good will come yet from this discussion of civil service reform; but I believe the abuses of the present system are grossly exaggerated. The expenses of our Government are less in proportion than those of any other. In a word, the entire cost of collecting the revenue is less that five per cent.

Mr. SCHURZ—Does not the Senator know that it has appeared in an official report to Congress that the losses occurring to the Government from the running in of cargoes without paying duty amount and have amounted for many years to from twelve million to twenty-five million dollars a year?

Mr. SHERMAN—I have examined that question. The great loss to our revenue is through passengers arriving at the port of New York bringing in expensive goods in trunks; but that is the case in all other countries also, and it can not be remedied by Civil Service reform, or any other plan that has yet been devised. The amount of losses from this source has been estimated at ten millions a year, and that is probably about three-fourths of the entire loss; but, as I have said, that can not be avoided by any system yet devised. The only way to do it is to repeal the custom tax.

Mr. TRUMBULL—I understand the Senator to say that he had reported a bill that would correct all the abuses at New York.

Mr. SHERMAN said he meant only all the abuses brought to light by the Custom House investigation in New York. He then discussed some difficulties in the way of civil service reform, but said that he, for one, made up his mind to give it a fair trial and to vote for whatever might be necessary to do so.

Mr. MORTON—I do not desire to discuss at this time the merits of this system of civil service reform. So far as I am concerned, what the President proposes shall have a fair trial. The Senator from Ohio (Sherman) has in part anticipated what I intended to say. I intend to challenge a statement made on the floor of the Senate this afternoon, and I believe read from the report of this commission, to the effect that one-fourth of the entire revenue of the United States is annually lost in its collection. I desire to challenge that statement. I don't call in question the sincerity of the board who make that statement, but I submit to the Senate and country that they have been grossly imposed upon, and that so far from twenty-five per cent. of the revenue being lost in that way, no evidence has been found, or can be found, which will show that five per cent. have been lost in that way under this administration.

Mr. EDMUNDS called Mr. Morton's attention to the fact that the Commissioners did not make that statement on their own authority, but merely said that it was so stated, and quoted the statement merely as a means of calling attention to the losses occurring in that way.

Mr. MORTON—I know that; but they mention the statement as if they believed it, and what I want to say is, that the representation made to them and embodied by them in their report to the President is a gross exaggeration, which ought not to be allowed to go before the country without being challenged. If our present system results in a loss of twenty per cent. of the revenues, it is the worst in the world, and this statement does such gross injustice to the administration that I think it ought to be met upon the threshold. Three-fourths of all that has been said during the last two years about the abuses of the civil service I believe to be the grossest exaggeration, the merest froth and suds; and while there are great evils in our system that ought to be remedied, I believe, as I have said here before, that our system is to-day, with all its faults, the best in the world. It may have faults that others have not, but others have faults that ours has not; and they are enormous ones, and if any one will take the trouble to read the history of the civil service of the great governments of Europe, they will be forced to the conclusion that they have enormous faults that do not belong to our Government.

In conclusion, Mr. Morton pointed out that Mr. Trumbull's idea of the best way to reform the civil service differed from the plan of the Civil Service Commissioners.

Mr. EDMUNDS announced that on Monday he would speak in reply to Mr. Carpenter.

The Senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.

In the House, Speaker Blane, owing to the extreme illness of one of his children, vacated the chair, and Mr. Dawes was appointed Speaker pro tem.

PENSION BILLS.

A large number of pension bills have passed the House.

Mr. GARFIELD opposed one of these bills, which allowed a widow who has been drawing a pension for nineteen years to receive fourteen years' back pension on the privilege of the bill passed yesterday making the pension commence from the death or discharge of the soldier.

Mr. Garfield said that that bill, although only applying to pensions of the late war, will take twenty million dollars out of the treasury, and commented upon the inattention of the House to these pension bills. The bill passed—109 to 65.

Mr. BROOKS presented a memorial from the New York Chamber of Commerce asking Congress to take measures for the restoration of

The Pension bill was reported. It appropriates $30,480,000, and was made the special order for next Thursday.

ANNAPOLIS.

The Wharton Trial.

ANNAPOLIS, January 18.—In the Wharton trial to-day Mr. Hagner resumed his argument. He said that only one purchase of tartar emetic was proven, and that was by Mrs. Chubb. He argued that the money offered to Marshal Frey was too small in amount to be considered a bribe, and was only intended for compensation for restoring Mrs. Wharton's servants, the prisoner not knowing that Frey was paid off. He asked how it was possible for the jury to agree as to the cause of death, if the medical experts could not. He next reviewed at length, and with severity, the testimony and analysis of Aiken and Toney, concluding the argument at 1:25.

The Senate Committee on Post Offices decided to report probably to-morrow the so-called "Hubbard Postal telegraph bill," without any except trifling amendments.

APPROPRIATIONS.

The Committee on Appropriations will report all bills at the earliest practicable period, so that Congress may have ample time to discuss and pass them, in view of adjournment by the 1st of June.

Durant, of this city, and G. A. Fox, Ex-Assistant Secretary of the Navy, with the understanding that the parties may appeal from the decision of this board to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The barometer will probably continue falling, with cloudy weather, very generally east of the Mississippi river, the lowest pressure passing into Missouri and northeastward to the lower lakes, accompanied by rain and snow; southeast winds with threatening weather and rain prevail on the gulf coast, and southerly winds, veering to southwest, throughout the Atlantic States, with snow in the Middle and Eastern States. Dangerous winds are not anticipated for this evening.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Senator Carpenter to-day argued the case of Myra Bodwell against the State of Illinois in the Supreme Court. The case involved the question of woman's rights under the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. It was contended that by virtue of those amendments all citizens, without distinction of color or sex, and when a woman without reference to marriage, are entitled to practice any trade, profession or pursuit which they may choose as an avocation. In this case the plaintiff, who was a married woman, sought to be admitted to the bar in Illinois, and the application was refused on the ground that as she was a married woman, she could not be liable on contracts with her clients. The case was heard in review, and Senator Carpenter took occasion to declare his views in favor of woman suffrage. Mrs. Bodwell is editor of the Chicago Legal News.

THE TOBACCO INTEREST.

The Committee on Ways and Means this morning gave a hearing to the representatives of the tobacco interest. Saml. W. Bailey, of Virginia, represented the tobacco interest of that State, and said the manufacturers were doing very little business, because an impression existed that there would be a change in the law, and this made them cautious. He should like to have a declaration at an early day as to what would be done in the way of legislation, or that nothing at all would be done, so that all parties might have some degree of security, and transact business understandingly.

J. D. Evans, of New York, representing the New York Tobacco Board of Trade, said they were in favor of bonded warehouses, which they at least thought would do no harm, but believed they were of immense benefit to them and the Government.

Mr. Bailey said his side of the question had been taken by surprise, not expecting that the subject of bonded warehouses would come up to-day. He desired a continuation of the hearing. It was agreed by the committee that there should be a postponement until next Tuesday morning, when the representatives of all kinds of tobacco manufacture are expected to be here.

Christian Piper, of St. Louis, representing a large portion of the western manufacturers, will oppose the bonded warehouse system as applicable to home consumption, apart from the purposes of exportation.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

FIRING THE SOUTHERN HEART.

WASHINGTON, January 17, 1872.

The Washington Patriot has lately changed its managing editor, and has been wild in its denunciation of everything like the new departure to which it gave in its adhesion a few weeks since. Column after column of the windiest clamor against the Government in its treatment of the Ku-Klux now fill its pages daily, and its editor seems to have received the mantle of a Yancy, and to imagine that eleven years of bitter American experience has been blotted out of our annals. He is manifestly a Bourbon, except in one particular, viz: he forgets that the nation have been regenerated and purged of slavery and the old means of propogating in a country devoted to freedom, the right of a few seedy aristocrats in the South to organize, murder, and tread under their feet every feeling of justice and morality that comports with the age in which they live.

He was once doubtless a rebel general, though now only a knight of the quill, and cuts and slashes very freely into the ranks of the Union army—on paper. Here is what he promises at the end of a column and a half of blather in his paper of yesterday:

"What Lee mercifully just failed to do in the Wilderness and in the cause of the Confederacy by too early a movement, a leagued and loyal nation may accomplish ten months hence in the cause of outraged constitutionalism—break Grant's column in the middle."

Can any one fail to see where his sympathies ran during the war? Will the spoiling of the sentence by inserting the word mercifully close any man's eyes to the fact manifested here that in the crisis alluded to, the wish was father to the thought. If so he has but to read other rebel sentiments with which the paper overflows, and read the reflex of it in the actual South where the virtue of frankness brings out into full view the result which this organ of Democracy is paid to advocate.

THE DESTRUCTIVES.

As a fair sample of the work these Democratic papers are advocating I clip a characteristic reply to a suggestion of the Herald that in the event of a foreign war the South would unite in the common defence of the country.

The Mobile Daily Tribune says to this:

"Never (if we can have anything to say in the matter) will a Southern sword be drawn or hand lifted to defend this nation or maintain a single one of its national rights, so called, so long as we know its government only by its hate, its cruelties, and its oppressions. We will obey the laws; but until we are invested with the habiliments of peers, or men, and as States, peers of the proudest and most favored, our swords will remain in their scabbards and our bayonets unfixed. We know whereof we speak, and commend to the consideration of the Herald and all who think with it, the following extract from Scripture, and with that dismiss the subject:"

"Lo thou trustest in the staff of this broken reed, whereon, if a man lean, it will go into his hand and pierce it."

What better than this frank avowal of treason in case of a hoped for war can be expected from Southern Democrats, when the central organ of the party and most of its newspapers over the North are daily filled with fulsome praise of the Ku Klux murderers and cries of "a Poland in America," "the wrongs of an oppressed people," &c., &c., simply because the Government seeks to protect the weak from the aggressions of the strong and to make all men equal in their civil rights before the laws south as well as north.

SUPPLEMENTAL CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

The speech of Senator Sumner of yesterday made quite a stir, especially on the part of the colored people who crowded the galleries to hear their great friend while he expounded his supplemental civil rights bill. He made some very good points in favor of the bill, but admitted in the course of his remarks that without any further legislation the right of action in favor of colored people was already good and valid, except in some special cases where the law deprived them from attending white schools, &c. It seems then, that the difficulty is not in the want of legislation, but in the want of being educated up to the justice of conceding rights to the colored race which the country requires. If this be so, there will be little gained by legislation at the present or any other time. It is the practice, and not the precept that is required. The precept is written all over our laws, and without justice ruling in the courts of our people, it will be impossible to get just decisions from judges or lawful verdicts from juries. So far as schools are concerned in sections throughout the Northern States where the colored residents are too few to sustain schools of their own, it has always been, and now is, the practice to admit a few colored children into the white common schools of each neighborhood, and where they are sufficiently numerous, to give them good schools of their own. It is doubtful if more than this can be attained anywhere by the Sumner bill. some of the features of which cannot fail to be very popular in the Southern States.

NEW ORLEANS TROUBLES.

The situation of political affairs in New Orleans assumed a new phase yesterday by the repeal of the obnoxious laws which the Carterites are opposed to. One of the Carter Senators went into the Senate and completed the necessary quorum for such legislation, and the repealing act was quickly passed by both Houses and signed by Governor Warmoth. This is one step towards reconciliation and restoration of peace.

MISCELLANEOUS.

RAILROADS.

PENNSYLVANIA CENTRAL.

The Cincinnati Times and Chronicle says: Reference has already been made in our columns to the proposed consolidation of the Georgia Railroad, and the attempt (so reported) of the Pennsylvania Railroad to secure this road as well as the Georgia Central. From the following statement it will at once be perceived that the plan is a bold and comprehensive one, whatever may be the result of the measure, as popular feeling in Georgia is not strongly in favor of it. The Georgia Railroad has about 232 miles in all, of which 174 are in the main line from Atlanta to Augusta, and the residue consists of branches and leased lines. The Georgia Central is 192 miles in length, between Macon and Savannah, but controls 541 miles by its leased lines, extending to Eufala, Augusta, Macon, Milledgeville, &c. The aggregate is 773 miles of road. The Pennsylvania now has control from Philadelphia to Augusta. By getting the Georgia road it would extend this sway thence to Atlanta, while the Georgia Central would lead it to Savannah. Still later it is hinted that the Pennsylvania Railroad is endeavoring to secure a combination with the Texas road from Shreveport to Memphis, which would ultimately result in giving this road control of a through line from Philadelphia to the Pacific, passing through the Southern States and Central Texas.

NORTH EAST PENNSYLVANIA RAILWAY.

A note from Mr. F. H. Saylor, Chief Engineer of this road, states: The graduation and masonry between Holboro and the junction with the North Pennsylvania Railroad at Abington is rapidly approaching completion. Track laying will commence in the spring, and it is expected that trains will run to Holboro by the 4th of July, 1872. This road will be of great convenience to the people of the richest sections of Pennsylvania, who have long felt the need of railroad facilities. At the annual meeting of the stockholders, held at Holboro, January 8, 1872, G. J. Mitchell, Esq., was re-elected President, with about the same board of directors as last year.

A BILL has passed both houses of the Illinois Legislature, by decided majorities, which makes a radical change in the regulation of the sale of liquor in that State. It is a true temperance measure, because it is addressed to the abuses of liquor, and provides for their prevention. It enacts that no intoxicating liquor shall hereafter be sold in the State without a license, and that no license shall issue unless the party applying therefor shall give a bond, in the penal sum of $3,000, with two freehold sureties, conditioned that they will pay all damages to any person, in person or property, by reason of the selling of liquor under said license; the penalty to be received in the name of the State for the use of any person injured by liquor sold by such licensed person. Sale of liquor to minors or intoxicated persons is prohibited.

THERE was a mechanical toy, formerly much in use among children, called the Thaumatrope, the peculiarity of which consisted in the fact that, when it was rapidly revolved, it assumed the appearance of a shape entirely different from its own. Mr. Conkling's treatment of the one-term resolution in the Senate may be described as purely thaumatropical. By attaching the one-term resolution to the strings of talk, and twirling it rapidly for two hours, he succeeded in exhibiting it to his audience, not as a one-term resolution at all, but as an electioneering document.

VISIONS of peace, soft as the curly smoke, floating through the imagination of the driver of a benzine wagon, at Titusville, Pa., were rudely scattered as he emptied his pipe upon the head of the barrel on which he was sitting, and the next moment he found himself spread out on a tall oak in a neighboring forest. The horses stood the shock bravely, but their denuded tails give them rather a dismasted appearance.

BILL REPORTED FAVORABLY.

Authorizing the Park Place Homestead Assurance to sell real estate.

A communication was presented from the State Printer, stating that he had delivered the copies of the first volume of about the non-receipt of which many Senators had complained to Mr. Bates, the State Historian.

NEW BILLS INTRODUCED.

By Mr. WARFEL, amending the jury law, providing that the drawing of jurors shall be made under the supervision of the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, or any two of them, and citizens who decree to be present; also, authorizing the overflowing of land for agricultural purposes.

By Mr. PURMAN, providing that the measure of damage on breach of penal contracts shall be the actual loss of power.

By Mr. WEAKLEY, a supplement to the act for the limitation of actions.

By Mr. WHITE, for the establishment of a board to examine and license druggists.

By Mr. GRAHAM, enabling the Humboldt Tin and Iron Company of Allegheny to increase its capital stock.

By Mr. WHITE, authorizing the Board of Control of Allegheny city to appropriate money to establish a library for the public schools.

There was a long debate as to the propriety of discharging the Judiciary Committee from the consideration of the bill amending the

PHILADELPHIA REGISTRY LAW.

Some of the Republicans favored an amendment, but no decisive action was taken.

Mr. BUCKALEW moved to consider the bill authorizing

REFORMED CUMULATIVE VOTING

in the election of school directors. Passed to a third reading and laid over.

Mr. BILLINGFELT offered a resolution requesting the Auditor General to furnish the Finance Committee with a detailed statement of the expense of amounting to thirty six thousand dollars. This was amended as as to refer all the accounts to the Finance Committee, and adopted.

The Senate discussed the House resolution to prepare a room in the State Capital for the picture of the and adjourned without reading the decision.

HOUSE.

Mr. BOMBERGER offered a resolution appointing a committee to prepare a room in the State Capitol for the picture of

THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG.

Various Philadelphia members endeavored to amend by instructing the committee to send to Philadelphia, but they failed, and the original resolution was passed.

BILLS REPORTED FAVORABLY.

Among the bills reported favorably was one by Mr. WHITE, extending the act of 1868 relative to taxation, and clerks of courts giving the fees to the counties instead of the State; also regulating the State Treasurer's deposits, giving them to the highest bidder who offers proper security.

[Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, January 18, 1872.

THE GUBERNATORIAL CONTEST.

From information received at this point from different counties, it is apparent that not more than thirty delegates outside of Philadelphia have yet been chosen for the Convention, and not more than ten of these have been instructed. Those who have been instructed are divided among at least three candidates. The Convention will consist of one hundred and thirty-three members, and will meet in April or May. None of the candidates for gubernatorial honors can, therefore, claim to have a certainty, or a majority of the delegates, up to this time.

LOCAL INDUSTRIAL ITEMS.

[From the American Manufacturer.]

EVERSON, PRESTON & CO.'S mills are running to their fullest capacity, having a large demand for their excellent quality of sheet iron, and some heavy orders for iron for bridge purposes.

McKNIGHT & CO., of Birmingham Rolling Mill, whose works were lately destroyed by fire, have contracted for the rebuilding of it and will soon have a most modern mill in full operation. The new building will be of the largest possible span, without the obstruction of a single post inside. For the present their nail business will not be started.

CAPTAIN WILLIAMS' large boat—210 feet deck, 48 feet beam, intended for the cotton trade between New Orleans and Little Rock—is being fitted with her machinery at James Rees' engine works, Pittsburgh. There are to be four boilers 30 feet long, 40 inches in diameter, with two engines 22 inches diameter and 8 feet stroke. All the work is intended to be of first class, modern character, in Rees' best style of construction.

THE Hall & Speer Plow Works, of Pittsburgh, has obtained the patents for a plow peculiarly adapted to cane culture, which Mr. Speer is now in the South arranging to put on the market. It makes the furrow, ready for dropping the cane, covers the trench, and finally cultivates the plant. Being so well and generally adapted to the purpose, a large trade is anticipated for it. No concern in the country has furnished so large a number of plows for the South as Hall & Speer.

MR. McPHERSON, a well known iron man of Pittsburgh, has invented a new fire box for puddling furnaces, which is so arranged as to be more convenient of access for the puddler, and with bars which retain the fuel until it is more nearly consumed than is the case with the fire boxes in general use. The apparatus is in use at Woods Bros. Mills, and it indicates a large saving in fuel with more rapid and effectual results upon the iron. We will report further upon it after it has been longer under test.

HARBAUGH, MATHIAS & OWENS' Superior Rail Mill is doing all its great capacity will admit with ten heating furnaces for the rail train alone. They are now erecting and soon to be in operation a 16 inch train for rolling the crop ends into piling bars and similar purposes. As shown what these extensive works are capable of doing, we quote the following from the books of the concern: They produced in the year just closed 36,336 tons of rails. In the week ending December 9th they turned out 1,114 tons, 1,517 lbs. And in the week ending December 16th, they made 1,111 tons, 145 lbs.

THE Fort Pitt Boiler Works, of Pittsburgh, are fitting up Captain Gray's new tow boat with five steel boilers, from Park Bro. & Co.'s steel, each boiler 28 feet long by 48 inches diameter. The rivet holes are all drilled; the horizontal seams are double riveted, and the work in every particular is done in the best manner possible. As these are the first steel boilers put upon a river boat, it is intended to use every means possible to give the system a thorough test, and no doubt is entertained but that the boilers will resist a pressure of four hundred pounds, if necessary, with as great safety as the ordinary boilers resist one hundred pounds. The boat is nearly in condition for trade, and in a few days will be ready for steam.

THE STATE.

SMALL POX cases have totally disappeared from Stroudsburg.

THE Bedford jail contains three men charged with the crime of murder.

HON. ELI SLIFER is writing letters from Europe to the Lewisburg Chronicle.

GENERAL H. D. FOSTER, of Greensburg, has struck a hundred barrel well at Parkers.

HON. D. J. MORREL, has been elected President of the Johnstown and Somerset Railroad.

COUDERSPORT, Potter county, has a new hotel and proposes becoming a summer resort.

THE Tioga County Agitator has a new dress of type and has changed its name to the Wellsboro Agitator.

MR. GEORGE WISE, of Franklintown, York county, a soldier of the war of 1812, died on the 7th inst., aged eighty years.

THE Beaver county Press has been enlarged and improved; it is a good Republican paper, and has our best wishes for its success.

MR. HORATIO W. WILDE has been elected to fill the vacancy in the New Brighton School Board made by the death of Dr. Stanton.

THE Brownsville Clipper says: A boy in Wharton township, Fayette county, recently caught a rabbit with five legs, the foot of the odd leg resembling the hoof of a horse.

THE Democratic County Committee of Bedford have nominated J. M. Reynolds, Esq., as candidate for the Legislature to fill the vacancy caused by the death of J. W. Dickson, Esq.

JUDGE AND MRS. SARTWELL, of Smethport, celebrated their golden wedding on New Year's day. There was but one other person present who had witnessed the wedding fifty years ago.

AT THE municipal election in New Brighton on the 9th inst., M. S. Johns was elected Burgess, and S. A. McGowan Assistant Burgess. There were sixty-six votes for water works to fifty three against.

IN Brooklyn, Susquehanna county, the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Burch was celebrated last week. There were present at it ten children, thirty grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

HON. GEORGE V. LAWRENCE and John H. Ewing were elected delegates to the Republican State Convention from Washington county, at a meeting of the Republican County Convention, held in that county last week.

THE Westfield Presbyterian Church, near Mt. Jackson, Lawrence county, was destroyed by fire on last Monday evening. A defective flue is supposed to have occasioned the fire. Rev. Wm. M. Taylor is the pastor of the church.

REV. A. M. CARNEY, the street preacher, was imprisoned in the county jail, at Middleburg, on Monday last. He was arrested at the upper end of Snyder county, while defending himself, as is reported, with fire arms as he was preaching.

HON. SAMUEL KERR died last week at his residence at Sandy Lake, Mercer county, in his eighty-third year. He had been five times a member of the Legislature and once an Associate Judge. Politically he was a Whig, and, later, a Republican.

THE Clarion Democrat says: A large new furnace, for manufacturing iron, with bituminous coal, is now being erected at Sligo. Also an establishment for making fire brick. The branch railroad to Sligo will be built the coming season. A town has been laid out at that point.

THE citizens of Beaver at a public meeting resolved that the town council be appointed as a Board of Health, modeled after that of this city and recommended to provide free vaccination. There is no small-pox in Beaver, but the people wisely believe in locking the stable door before the horse is stolen.

THE Advance, a monthly paper published at Washington by Messrs. Durant and Wilson, has been changed to a weekly. It does not propose to meddle with politics, as there are already two very good political weeklies published in Washington. It is under able management and ought to succeed.

THE coal tonnage on the Lehigh Valley Railroad for the year which ended on the 30th of November, was 3,244,170 tons, against 3,652,483 tons the previous year—a decrease of 378,263 tons. But for the long continued strike in the early part of the season, the shipment of coal over this road would have been largely increased.

A LADY living on West Beau street, in a fit of insanity, leaped from a third story window to the pavement below. She then crawled a distance of three hundred yards to a neighbor's house where she was taken up and carried in. She was wonderfully bruised by the fall. At present she is unable to move herself in the bed without help.—Washington Advance.

DR. WM. GIBSON, of Jamestown, was severely burned about the face and hands recently, by the explosion of a quantity of gas. The Dr. lights his premises with a patent gas, and the gasometer not working satisfactorily, he took a candle to examine into the cause. He is confident now that there was something wrong. His injuries will confine him to the house for some time.

THE York Republican says: Two young men, employed by Mr. Feigel to haul ore from his banks near Loganville, got to drinking on Saturday last, when one persuaded the other, who was not accustomed to use liquor, to drink heavily. The poor fellow soon became stupidly drunk, and in this condition remained until the next day (Sunday), when he died. The name of the deceased is George Waughman.

A RESIDENT of Greenboro, Greene county, who suffers from disease of the heart, became convinced that he ought to be baptised, and asked his pastor to immerse him in the river. This the clergyman, on account of the critical state of his health, refused to do. After much persistency, however, a compromise was made, and the repentant invalid was immersed in a bath-tub placed out of doors and filled with warm water.

A MAN, named Rhodes, was killed on the Pennsylvania R. R. Monday afternoon, near Derry, by the Cincinnati Express east. He was lying drunk, and perhaps asleep, when the train came around the curve at full speed. The engineer at first supposed the object was an old coat, but when he came nearer he saw that it was a man. He tried to check up, but was then too close. The train passed over and tore the man to pieces. He is a man of family and resides in the neighborhood.

AT Oswego village, Potter county, three men attempted to force their way into the liquor shop of John V. Brown, some time after he had closed it for the night. Brown remonstrated through the window at the side of the door, and finally struck at one of them through the window with the but end of a revolver which dropped and exploded, instantly killing Francis Allen, one of the three outsiders. Brown gave himself up at once and was afterwards discharged by the Coroner's jury.

THE Sharpsville Advertiser says: We are credibly informed that the railroad bridge over Wolfcreek is now completed, and that the cars of the Shenango and Allegheny Valley Railroad will be running through Pine Grove within two weeks. Notwithstanding this road has been laboring under many disadvantages, the management has displayed great enterprise and energy in overcoming their difficulties, and are deserving the support of the public in their endeavors to lengthen the road and to improve its facilities.

THE Beaver Radical says: Harn, who was convicted at the November term of Court of the murder of Grant at New Brighton, attempted to escape from jail on Saturday night. When discovered he was trying to cut his way through the grating of the second story window with a knife, one of the blades of which had been made to answer the purposes of a saw. Sheriff Greabing soon put a stop to further operations in that direction by taking him back to his old quarters—the "ironclad"—where he is now doubtless confined.

THE number of inmates at the Pennsylvania Training School for feeble minded children, at Media, during the year ending December 31, 1871, was as follows, as we learn from the annual report: Admitted during 1871, 46; number removed during 1871, 46; number who remained, December 1871, 185, of whom there are 109 males and 76 females. Deceased, 8; discharged improved, 39; discharged not improved, 7; number in remunerative employment, 75. Number on State fund of Pennsylvania, 81½; do, State fund of New Jersey, 25½; do. RICHARD WAGNER has succeeded in collecting half a million dollars for the purpose of having all of his operas performed at a new theater to be constructed for the purpose, in the city of Baireuth.

THE musical climax of this most musical of seasons, says the Boston Advertiser, will undoubtedly be the Carl Rosa Italian opera troupe, which is to sing early in the spring. Parepa, Adelaide Phillips, Wachtel and Santly are the names mentioned in connection with this company.

THE Louisville Courier-Journal says: The Grand Duke has consented to visit Memphis, and the editors there are now rehearsing their regular monthly quarrels, with the view of entertaining him with two or three street fights during his stay in the city. He is expected to attend the funerals.

BONDS at Frankfort 96⅝.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp, 47½f.

GOLD closed in New York on yesterday at 108⅞@109.

A VERY numerously signed requisition has been made by both Democrats and Republicans on Colonel James Starr, to permit his name as a "reform" candidate for the successorship to the late Mr. Connell in the State Senate. He will be in the field for the honor.

THERE is another military riot in Mexico and the telegraph furnishes us with the usual gossip about defeats and successes. He would be an apt student who could succeed in keeping the run of these Mexican troubles and outbreaks which are as numerous almost as the stars in the milky way.

THE appointments to the police force of the city made by Mayor Blackmore afford very general satisfaction. So far as we can judge, our chief magistrate made his selections with the single view to serving the best interests of the community, and his action was endorsed by the Police Committee of Councils. We think, as a class, our policemen will compare most favorably with the guardians of any other city in the Union.

THE TARIFF TINKERS are industriously at work at Washington, and all manner of experiments are resorted to, to accomplish private ends, without waking the country up to the excitement of a tariff issue. Give us free-trade, pure and simple, if changes must be made from our present sound policy. Then slap on the direct taxes, shut up the mills and forges, and wheat will sell for ten cents a bushel, and eggs for five cents a dozen.

THE Irish of St. Louis are dissatisfied because the Democratic party cuts the element in distributing the spoils of success, and swear to do some independent things in the future on their own account. This is all wrong. It will be an unhappy day when any particular nationality sets itself up as a balance of power in order to control matters their own way. There is a little to much of that spirit already manifested in this country and the sooner it dies out the better for all.

THE statue of Ben Franklin, printer, sage and philosopher, was yesterday unveiled in the public square of New York. A pleasing incident connected with the ceremonies was the origination of a subscription paper to procure a statue of Horace Greeley, for position in the same place. It is not often that such an honor as that contemplated for the editor of the Tribune is paid a living man, and we are heartily glad that Greeley has lived long enough to prove worthy the compliment.

WE CALL upon Senator Graham and his committee of investigation into the Evans matter, for a thorough sifting of all the facts connected therewith, and feel well assured that we shall have it. The people will not be satisfied with a partial examination, or a whitewashing report. Give us all the facts connected with the affair and above all tell the people who got the money, that Evans claims was his commission. Mr. Graham knows full well the responsibility imposed on him, as the chairman of this important committee, and he will meet it without flinching.

THE SMALL-POX is on the increase in New York, and grave alarm is entertained that it has only commenced its ravages as an epidemic. A class of Germans in that city are responsible for its spread in large degree, refusing, on a superstitious belief that it is wicked to endeavor circumvent Providence, to get vaccinated. We think there is work for the more intelligent Germans to do in order that their ignorant countrymen may look more wisely on vaccination and adopt it as a preventive. So long as the small-pox prevails in New York, we cannot afford to let up in our home sanitary measures to keep the loathsome disease in check.

WHEN Mr. Buckalew voted for Mr. Rutan he stated explicitly that it was in accordance with the instructions of the Democratic Senators adopted at a meeting of the same, and when Mr. Randall voted for Hammersly, he stated just as explicitly that be went on his own hook, and had had no conference with his Democratic colleagues.—Post.

Then, according to this Democratic authority, a sworn representative of the people must consult his party, and its leaders, before he dare rise up in the Senate of Pennsylvania and simply do his duty. Does the Post want us to believe that it would justify Mr. Randall and his colleagues in preventing the organization of the Legislature until Mr. Connell's seat would be filled? Would that have been right? Let us have an answer. No more dodging.

AGAIN the war on pork is made by the press of the country, having its start this time in the circumstances attending the poisoning in Cleveland, of a whole family and the death of some of its members by eating meat affected with the "trichina spiralis." The pork trade of the country was seriously injured when the last raid was made on the "unclean beast," and the people were turned against eating the toothsome sausage made from its flesh, but as the trichina parasites lived principally in the brains of sensational paragraphists, the prejudice against the swine creation had about died away, and pork was rapidly asserting itself once more in place among the palatable food on the ordinary bill of fare. We take very little stock in the truthfulness of the charges made in general against the health of the hog of the period, neither do we think that juicy pork stakes should be denied place on the table because, forsooth, a case or two of trichina spiralis can be trumped up against them in the whole course of a year. Seriously this periodical cry against pork materially injures the interests of stock dealers and butchers by lessening the consumption of the meat, and no doubt is raised by speculators in order to influence the market to their own advantage. In all justice let the hog have a fair show.

WE can see no objection to the proposition of Mr. McCarthy to reorganize the system of city assessments. While our millage appears to be exorbitant, and much above the rate in other cities, it must not be forgotten that the valuation placed upon property within the city for purposes of taxation is ridiculously low. A proper equalization of taxes must depend upon a faithful and accurate valuation of real estate, and where this is done in a loose or indifferent manner much inequality will result. It does not matter to the city, how high its realty is valued, but under the present law the county tax is levied on the same valuation as that determined for city purposes. So, should Pittsburgh conclude to fix the valuation of city property at the absolute market price of the same, our citizens would necessarily be obliged to pay a much higher proportion of county tax, than the balance of the county. However, we believe this objection is covered by the bill, which we have not yet seen.

The new law would have to provide or city assessors, in addition to those n elected, for determining the valuation for county purposes, for the fluctuations in prices of real estate are so frequent, that it would be necessary to rearrange the valuation each year. We shall have more to say on the subject after we have examined Mr. McCarthy's bill.

LEGAL TENDERS.

The Supreme Court of the United States, a year or two ago decided in the Hepburn case, an appeal from the Kentucky court, that the Legal Tender act was not applicable to debts contracted before its passage. In other words that government legal tender bills were not "legal tenders" on contracts made before said bills were authorized. The apparent justice of this decision caused a general acquiescence by the people, and business which had remained unsettled for years awaiting it, was closed up on the basis thus declared to be legal.

Since then, however, there have been some changes in the court, which have effected an entire change in its sentiment on this important subject. Another decision has just been given which reverses the previous one and makes a government greenback a legal tender for the payment of all pre-existing debts, and all debts of a private nature. Five of the nine justices concur in this latter decision, which, it is to be hoped, will remain the law for all time. The chief point argued in coming to this last decision, was the right and duty of the government to preserve its own life when attacked, and in danger.

It was necessary to this end for Congress to enact the legal tender act, mak Government paper money, legally as good as gold. Had it been necessary, Congress had the power to ship all the gold out of the country, and for that matter to forever keep it out of use, if it had been found necessary for the preservation of the national life. All citizens were bound alike to support the burdens imposed by war, and therefore, all debts were payable in Government legal tender money. The great emergency of the country having unexpectedly arisen, and the enhanced value of gold having been caused thereby, the act was passed to secure to the creditor his proper payments, and to enable the debtor to carry out his agreements, the same as he could have done had the extraordinary emergency not arisen. Without such a law the country would have become bankrupt, inevitably and irretrievably lost, this disaster would have carried with it all pre-existing contracts of whatever nature, and in enabling the creditor to secure his principal and interest, it was but just to protect the debtor from unjust extortion.

It is to be hoped, we say, that the latest decision may remain the LAW, and that, in case of the death of one of our Supreme Judges, it will not be reversed. The re-opening of the question was seriously regretted by many who were opposed to the first decision of the court, as such reversals of judgment at each change in the personnel of the court, tend greatly to weaken the confidence of the public in the stability of their decisions, and the strict integrity which should mark every step of the tribunal upon which we must all depend for the preservation of our rights, liberties and institutions.

The four Judges left, of the five who agreed with the first decision, including Chief Justice Chase, adhered to it, but this time they are in the minority, and their opinions go for nought. This proves, that in giving their opinion on the law, they did so upon mature reflection, and time and further study have not changed their convictions.

We presume and hope that this will be the end of the matter. Greenbacks will now be really, what they were previously only by name "legal-tenders" on all private debts, or contracts of any kind. The near approach of their value to par with gold, will cause but little material difference to creditors, and the final resumption of specie payments will make Government greenbacks as good as gold for all practical purposes.

OUR DISTRICT IN CONGRESS.

Our representative in Congress, Gen. James S. Negley, has been particularly zealous and industrious in looking after our local interests, and merits the gratitude of the entire people. Elsewhere we publish the text of several bills he has just introduced, which should every one be adopted without objection. The first provides for the erection of a new public building in this city for the use, accommodation and purposes of the United States Court and federal officers. None can deny but we need such an improvement, for no other district of equal importance in the country is so sadly poverty stricken in this direction as our own. Our public officers are quartered in various out-of-the-way places in the city, and are as hard to find by a stranger as it would be to discover a rich man in the poor house. Why our great and wealthy Government should wear this vaccination mark of poverty in our prosperous community on its good strong arm, we know not, but imagine that it was content to let us put up with things as we have them so long as we did not ask for any change or improvement. Twenty years ago our custom house and the court rooms in it were, perhaps, regarded as grand institutions, but now they are wholly unfit for the many purposes to which applied. It is an absolute, pressing necessity that better accommodations for the transaction of the United States business should be afforded the public servants, and in withholding them the Government will display no wise economy. It is rather mortifying that the high court of the whole people is held in a contracted, ill ventilated, dark and dingy room in a building only conspicuous outwardly for its stupid massiveness and antique homeliness.

In it, too, is our postoffice where it is absolutely painful and unhealthy to transact the enormous business which belongs to it. For want of room the clerical force of the office could not be increased, and despite the executive ability of the postmaster, the conduct of the office cannot fail to be loose, slip-shod and unbusinesslike. The other officers who occupy the building, merely stay because they have no other place to go. We urge, in all earnestness, that Congress shall pass the bill introduced by Gen. Negley for the public interest demands that a new building should be erected in this city by the general Government.

The bills providing for the improvement of the Ohio and Monongahela rivers are both wise and timely movements, and inasmuch as we have so often expressed our views on the importance of keeping those great outlets in good navigable order, it is not necessary that we should ask that our representative should be sustained in the matter by Congress. The slight expenditure of a few millions of dollars on our great channels of trade would be repaid ten-fold to the country at large in the greater prosperity of the people, inside of a very few years.

The establishment of a Marine Hospital at this Port of Entry is a necessity, and doubtless very little opposition to such a philanthropic movement will be encountered. If our rivers shall be improved and therefrom follow constant navigation, a hospital for the use of navigation will be indispensable. Viewed altogether, we think the measures bearing more immediately on our home interests, as introduced by General Negley, should be passed. Our district rarely asks for anything at the hands of the General Government, and we hope in this instance will not be refused the urgent requests of our representative.

IN A. D. 12,871 the Falls of Niagara will be worn away—so Agassiz says. The hotels there charge this up as an extra.

NEW BOOKS.

WEARITHORPE.—By "Fadette," author of Ingemisco, etc. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co.; Pittsburgh: R. S. Davis & Co. This is a novel of English life, pretty well told, showing a certain amount of power and quite interesting, but its virtues scarcely over-balance its faults, the chief of which are a certain rudeness or hastiness of style and the frequent use of dialect English, which in our mind, is so crying a sin that the grand genius of the author of Adam Bede scarcely sufficed to render it admissable.

MEMOIR OF ULRIC DAHLGREN. By his father, Rear Admiral Dahlgren, Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co., Pittsburgh: R. S. Davis & Co. The subject of this memoir is known as one of the bravest of the young heroes and martyrs of the war for the Union. His short life sufficed, with his untimely death, to give his name an immortality on the pages of American history. The work of recording his bright deeds and sad end has been affectionately yet faithfully performed by his distinguished father who has gone to join him "on the other side." An appendix to the volume before us contains a few poetical tributes chosen from among the many which were called forth by the death of young Dahlgren.

FIRESIDE SCIENCE: By James R. Nichols, A. M., D. D., editor of the Boston Journal of Chemistry, New York: Hurd and Houghton; Pittsburgh: R. S. Davis & Co. This is a very valuable little book and one which we can heartily recommend. It would be well if it were very generally made a home hand book. It consists of a series of essays upon subjects connected with every day life, telling what every one ought to know concerning ventilation, smoking, clothing, kerosene, cleanliness, water pipes, house plants, etc. We hope it will generally be read.

THE COIN BOOK, with engravings of the principal coins. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co., Pittsburgh: R. S. Davis & Co. This sterling book of statistics contains a history of coinage, an epitome of the mint laws of the United States, statistics of the coinage of this country from 1792 to 1870, a list of the current gold and silver coinage of all countries with their custom house valuations, a coin dictionary, ancient and modern, a list of works upon the subject, the product of the precious metals in the various States, and some other matters. The plates are finely executed and any one can see at a glance that it is a book that would be invaluable to all persons having anything to do with coined money.

THE NATIONAL QUARTERLY REVIEW, New York, Edward I. Sears, Editor and Publisher. We have for a long time regarded this as the best of American reviews, but we are beginning to lose confidence in its accuracy. Our readers may remember that last March, we called their attention to an article upon Germany and France, which was filled with the most absurd errors. The December number, now before us, contains nothing nearly so bad as that, and has a number of fine articles, notably one on Quack Doctors, which, though containing severely personal attacks upon well-known patent medicine makers, is ably and earnestly written. The article on the Mound Builders of America, is interesting, and treats upon a subject which is worthy of much more attention than it gets in America. There are several other good articles. But the carelessness and tendency to harp, even at the expense of accuracy, peeps out in a short review of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary. With its criticisms upon the philological and etymological value of this work, severe as they are, we have nothing to do, but when it says that the crowning fault of the work is that it is filled with absurd and useless illustrations, and is sold at twelve dollars when it ought to be sold for less, we cannot refrain from wondering why Dr. Sears permits such nonsense, for he must know that, for persons who do not wish the expensive work with the illustrations, a cheaper edition of the same is issued without them, so that, if that is the "crowning absurdity," the book must be better than the reviewer seems to wish to infer it is. The value of a review is so dependent upon its fairness and accuracy that we think the National must be more careful in the future if it does not wish to lose its well-earned reputation.

THE CONTEMPORARY REVIEW.—Messrs. J. B. Lippincott & Co., of Philadelphia, are about to do their countrymen a great service by issuing an American edition of this very excellent monthly review. It ranks now among the best, if not altogether as the best, of English reviews, but has hitherto been so expensive, costing nearly fifteen dollars a year, that it was out of the reach of many who will now be able to purchase it, as the American edition is sold at just half the price of the English one. The December number contains Tennyson's Last Tournament, a characteristic article on "Yeast," by Prof. Huntley, a fine review of George MacDonald's works, an unsatisfactory article upon the Philosophy of Mythology, by Professor Max Mueller, and a very able essay upon The Crisis in the Catholic Church in Bavaria, besides several other articles of the very highest order.

OLD AND NEW.—The January number of this progressive magazine is an excellent one. Its reviews and literary discussions are up to their own high standard and the other departments are not inferior, including a notable translation of the noble Hymn of Cleanthes, by Rev. Ed. Beecher, an article on modern English novels by Dr. Bellows, and the continuations of the two capital serial stories.

STARTLING STORY.

A Sensational Revival.

William Morgan was somewhat noted a number of years ago. William joined a secret society, it may be remembered, and having absorbed a large amount of mystery, somebody pricked him, and made him cadaverous in a few moments. Exactly what became of William was not known until a few days back. Some supposed he was put in a boat without so much propelling or impelling power at hand as a bottle of whisky, and that he drifted over Niagara falls and was never accurately gathered. Others supposed that he was tied to the back of a wild horse, and that the horse Mazeppa'd, so to speak, until there was nothing left of William but a few useless bones. But none of the stories were true. Indeed, far different. We learn the entire facts from a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune who obtained them in the original packages from a party of explorers, who in their turn learned them from an Apache chief as an unimportant matter, incidental merely to their main object, which was the discovery of a locality famous, it seems, among the legends of the border as the "golden mountain." They had the good luck to make this chief a prisoner, and the secret of the golden mountain was given as the price of his release. His further story was in substance that in December, 1826, a band of Apaches lying in ambush near the Rio Grande about opposite the present site of El Paso, in Texas, saw a party of horse men, of whom one suddenly sprang from his horse and made his way into a dense thicket, as if trying to escape from his companions, who fired a few shots at him and pursued him a short distance, but unsuccessfully. The fugitive ran directly towards the Indians and was among them before he realized his danger. They seized and bound him and carried him to their camp, many days' journey distant, intending to keep him for a while, and then amuse themselves with his sufferings, while they tortured him to death after their barbarous fashion. But the captive divined their purpose and proceeded to excite their curiosity. The Tribune correspondent says he told them a part of his personal history, and promised to tell the rest only on condition that they would spare his life; but the truth probably is that he divulged facts regarding the secret society, and left off at the precise place where an unhappy candidate is about to ride the goat, or traverse the rugged way, or something of that kind. However, they spared his life on condition that he wouldn't try to escape; and inasmuch as the captive had peculiar reasons for not wishing to escape, he was wise in accepting the terms. Of course he married the chief's daughter in due time, and after a while himself became chief. The story continues:

He taught the Indians the secrets of the Great Spirit, by means of which the Apaches have become the strongest of the Indian tribes. They have learned to pass through the country of the white men in safety, to conceal their own movements and obtain information of their enemies, and to distinguish an enemy from a friend by passwords and signs, as far as they can be seen. He taught them of a great society which extended all over the world, instructing them in its ceremonies, how to make its badges and insignia, and to celebrate certain days, among them the 24th of June. By his direction they adopted the custom, which they still maintain, of keeping one of themselves, an educated half-breed, in the country of the white man, and by the secrets of this society he is able to tell them of every plan of attack upon them as soon as it is known to the leaders of their enemies, and when any of the tribe are captured he can almost always provide for their escape through the connivance of some members of the society among the white men. Their great white chief told them he got into trouble by writing a book containing the secrets of the society; that he was seized near his home, some months' journey from the place where he fell in with the Indians; that he was imprisoned for some time at a fort, taken from there to the Illinois river and down that stream and the Mississippi to New Orleans; thence in a ship to the mouth of the Rio Grande, and was to be given into the hands of some Jesuit priests in Mexico.

The captive ruled the Apaches for a number of years; but he died one day, and was buried in the famous golden mountain. His grave is walled up and covered with solid gold, and is their secret place of worship, where they celebrate mysterious rites yearly on the 24th of June. His eldest son succeeded him as the great chief of the tribe, and was himself the narrator of these curious facts. This captive, it is hardly necessary to say was William Morgan; and in reading the story the young man may learn what he, too, may come to, possibly, if he joins a society for the purpose of learning and divulging its secrets.

A MOB OF WOMEN.

Trumbull Retires to Take a Bath—Ridiculous Scenes.

[Cincinnati Gazette Washington Letter.]

The convention of notorious women that has been in session here two days has presented the spectacle of all "wings" of the movement blended into one, the resultant being the lowest of all, namely, that which Mrs. Woodhull, combines in herself. Free love, skepticism, infidelity, spiritualism, and kindred elements have swallowed up the more womanly company of reformers represented here at the last similar convention by Mrs. Beecher-Hooker and others like her. To-day the entire convention invaded the Capitol, and looked and acted like a mob. And the comparison is not exaggerated. The Judiciary Committee of the Senate had agreed to receive a delegation from the convention and hear their views. Instead, the entire body went up.

When then they entered the building it was with such noise and demonstration that the Senate chamber was locked to prevent them from invading it by force, and holding a town meeting there, in the absence of the Senate. But from this place the crowd surged down to the Judiciary Committee's room. The members had not arrived, and the mob soon grew impatient.

When Senator Trumbull arrived, Mrs. Stanton, glancing in at the room, declared they could not all get in there. Mr. Trumbull mildly intimated it was not intended they should, and that only a delegation the body should select would be admitted.

Upon this there was a perfect storm of dissatisfaction. Mr Trumbull was entreated to open the Senate chamber, but declined for want of authority. As other members of the committee had not arrived, Mr. Trumbull concluded to leave for a while.

Woodhull, Mary Walker, Mrs. Beecher, and others declared they would go into that committee room, that they represented all the women of America, and he had no right to keep them out. However, he left. Woodhull and Dr. Walker then seized the door knob, and held it to prevent any one from moving them from the place. The rest closed around them, and so, when Senator Carpenter came, it was impossible for him to make his way through the crowd. The defiant women would not move an inch. The Sergeant-at-Arms came, but no attention was paid to his orders. Next, one policeman was summoned, then another, and finally the whole force was ordered up. In the midst of this movement a sufferer cried out, "Where's Mr. Trumbull?" "I'll tell you where he is," cried Mrs. Hooker. "He's gone down to take a bath, leaving the representatives of all the women of the United States to wait for him. He needs purification, though, after trying to pack us all in that small room."

And this was a specimen of the more dignified talk of that mob of women, for it was just that. If an equal number of men had conducted themselves in the Capitol with one-tenth part the want of decorum shown by this body of women, every one would have been taken into custody at once. Finally, a good part of the crowd was admitted and the argument went on.

The argument, founded upon the improper conduct indulged in, as indicated above, will, without doubt, prevail with the Judiciary Committee.

The convention has received a number of letters from public men, in answer to invitations to be present. The following from General Garfield will be of interest in Ohio:

"WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 9, 1872.
"Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Suffrage Convention, Lincoln Hall, Washington, D. C.:

"DEAR MADAM—In answer to your letter of to-day, inviting me to address the Suffrage Convention now in session in this city, I beg leave to say that, while I heartily sympathize with all efforts that will elevate women and better their condition, I do not believe that suffrage will accomplish that result.

"Had I no other reason for this opinion, the recent tendencies of the suffrage movements in this country would confirm me in the correctness of my conclusion.

"I, therefore, respectfully decline your invitation. Very respectfully, yours,
"J. A. GARFIELD."

Miss Anthony said that when Mr. Garfield wrote that letter he wrote his own epitaph. However, he will not resign immediately.

The Empress's Jewels.

In speaking of the jewels of the ex-Empress of the French for which the Messrs Emanuel of Bond street, London, recently gave four hundred thousand dollars, and which they are now ready to sell, the London Standard says:

The collection is remarkable in many ways. That of the Prince Esterhazy was more valuable, but for taste and workmanship, combined with historical interest, it is not too much to say that nothing like it has been offered for sale in England within living memory, if at all. A mere catalogue of the articles shows this. After the war between France and Austria in 1859, and when peace was concluded, the Empress had a head ornament of diamonds worked into the form of an olive wreath, with black beads introduced in it at regular intervals. The olive branch told its own story of peace, and the sombre beads with which the glittering brilliants were relieved were meant to express sorrow for the soldiers who had fallen. The workmanship is exquisite and the stones are of the first water. This magnificent ornament is valued at several thousands of pounds. It would be superfluous to pass eulogium upon the beauty or quality of the jewels. It is sufficient to know that they were many of them designed and worn by the Empress Eugenie in the days of her greatness, and that they nearly all speak of that personal taste for which she was famous. The famous cross, suspended from a pearl necklace, and represented in Winterhalter's portrait, is composed of emeralds of the finest color and purity, while the pearls all match each other in size, shape and tint. Another necklace of black pearls of large size took years to collect, for the pearls match each other perfectly, and those versed in the subject know how great is the difficulty of procuring a sufficient number of these for a large ornament to be composed of them exclusively. There are pendants of large diamonds and pearls in fringes of ten, which were worn by the Empress in combination with the crown jewels of France. Another splendid head ornament is composed of wheat ears in diamonds, which were capable of being detached, and were oftener worn separately as dress ornaments than in their collected form. The watch with chatelaine carried by the Empress are also for sale, and form a remarkable piece of workmanship. The back of the watch, which is the size of a small or "godless" florin, is jeweled with diamonds and colored precious stones, which the chatelaine matches, and the setting is peculiarly delicate and tasteful. The ear drops, composed of immense brilliants, were a present from the Emperor, as was a bracelet with a large sapphire in the centre and surrounded by diamonds. This last article is a really splendid bauble, and contrasts favorably with another bracelet composed of many colored stones, which is said to have been presented by the viceroy of Egypt. The massive simplicity of the one, and the rather barbaric magnificence of the other, convey a valuable lesson in the art of selecting jewels, just as the aigrette of diamonds, emeralds, and pearls presented by the Sultan makes the exquisite head ornament of English make, bought at the Exhibition of 1862, seem the perfection of taste. The wonderfully light brooch of brilliants, made to represent an orchid with long pendant leaves and drops, is another ornament to which pure taste gives additional value. The same may be said of the necklace of large sapphires and diamonds with pearls attached to it, each pearl weighing some hundred grains, and of the large diamond anchors worn as shoulder ornaments by the Empress as patroness of the French fleet, and procured especially for the imperial visit to Cherbourg, and indeed nearly all the ornaments now offered for sale. There is not one which does not suggest state pageantry and imperial profuseness. It must not be supposed that this represents the whole of the Empress's stock of jewels. Many of these are too costly and imposing for any position in life but that which was recently occupied by their fair owner. The Empress of Russia is understood to have purchased the celebrated suit of rubies, and it is known that there are many articles of enormous value still at Chiselhurst, which will be disposed of when a purchaser can be found. Most of the jewels now at Mr. Emanuel's might be worn with propriety by any lady whose purse is long enough for their purchase, while some, such as the watch and the emerald, ruby, and diamond hoop-rings, speak of daily use by the Empress.

MARY, Countess of Orkney, in Scotland, was both deaf and dumb. She was married by signs. Shortly after the birth of her first child the nurse with considerable astonishment, saw the mother cautiously approach the cradle in which the infant was sleeping, evidently full of some deep design. The Countess, having perfectly assured herself that the child really slept, raised an immense stone which she had concealed under her shawl, and, to the horror of the nurse, (who was an Irish woman, and like all persons of the lower order in her country, and indeed in most countries, was fully inpressed with an idea of the peculiar cunning and malignity of "dumbness,") lifted it with an apparent intent to fling it down vehemently. Before the nurse could interpose, the Countess had flung the stone—not, however, as the nurse had apprehended, at the child, but on the floor, where, of course, it made a great noise. The child immediately awoke and cried. The Countess, who had looked with maternal eagerness to the result of her experiment, fell on her knees in a transport of joy. She had discovered that her child possessed the senses which were deficient in herself. She exhibited on many occasions similar proofs of intelligence, but none so interesting.

DURING the evenings of camp meeting at Martha's Vineyard the young women, whose pious proclivities have drawn them to the island, indulge in a pleasant practice, which is technically termed "bluffing." They stroll with the youths whose "gum drops" they are, upon the bluffs which line the shores, with but one shawl between each couple to protect them from old ocean's blasts. "Beaching" is another term of similar import.

HOME AND HEALTH.

When disease of any kind invades the family circle it brings unhappiness and pain.

In the words home and health are embodied sentiments of the highest concern to all who wish the greatest degree of enjoyment which this world affords. We have seen many a pale and sickly girl fading away as the frost melts before the kiss of the sunbeam; the pallor indicative of waning health may be seen spreading its touch of decay over her once beaming face; now comes the cough, the wasting of flesh, the tremulous walks, the sunken eye, the expectoration of blood or matter which point out that the lungs are failing in their office. Now is the time to take a remedy, such an one as Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure, which will not only improve the blood and add to its plastic power but will aid the lymphatic and eliminating organs to remove from the system the lurking poisons which taint and vitiate the blood. It is all right to wrap up in flannels and protect the feet with shoes impervious to the wet and slash of winter; but when the cough comes, the fevered glow of the face, the quickened movement of the heart, you may well know that something more is needed to preserve the animal organism from wreck and ultimate ruin. It is useless to cry out when all the avenues of life have been forced, and when function after function has surrendered to the enemy. Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure is the remedy that will cure Consumption as well as remove that cachectic state of the system upon which it depends. Send for pamphlet. Sold at $1.50 per bottle, or four for $5. Lung examinations every day except Sunday and Tuesday, at 167 Liberty street, from 10 A. M. to 1 P. M., and from 3 until 6 P. M.

THROW IN REINFORCEMENTS.

The Citadel of Life is in a state of siege all through the year, but is never more closely invested than in mid-winter. The liver is usually somewhat torpid, and the bowels more or less constipated at this season, and dyspepsia often assumes its most aggravated form in cold and wet weather. In short, the sluggish system seems inclined to intermit or shirk some of its most important duties under the influence of a low temperature, and requires wholesome stimulation. The spur required is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the only medicine which quickens the action of the secretive organs, and brings out the latent vitality of the system, without creating any febrile symptoms, or the slightest nervous excitement.

The great Vegetable Tonic is not recommended as a specific for Coughs, Colds and Consumption—that field being left open to the concocters of preparations which cannot by any possibility reach the lungs; but as a specific for the constitutional and physical weakness which invite pulmonary disease, it is literally infallible. The most insidious and terrible enemy of human life is not disease itself, but the weakness which affords it an opportunity to gain a firm hold of the vital system. Remember that Stamina, Vital Energy—the life principle, or whatever you may choose to call the resistant power which battles against the causes of disease and death, is the grand safeguard of health. It is the garrison of the human fortress, and when it waxes weak, the true policy is to throw in reinforcements. In other words, when such an emergency occurs, commence a course of Hostetters.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR
To its Natural Vitality and Color.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray: either of them disposes it to fall off prematurely, and either effect is unsightly and unpleasant to behold. DR. AYER'S consummate skill has produced an antidote for these deformities, which has won gratitude for him from multitudes of women and men. His HAIR VIGOR sometimes reproduces lost hair; and always restores to faded and gray hair its natural color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. The comparatively few bald and gray heads, that we now see, are those who have not yet discovered the virtues of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for renewing the hair. The fresh and youthful hair we see on older heads is often the product of his art. If you are disfigured, or made old, austere and ugly, by gray hair, restore its youthful color, and with it your features to their original softness and agreeable expression.
As an elegant dressing for beautifying the Hair it has no superior.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, January 18, 1872.

The suspension of the stock brokerage firm of Gould, Strong & Co., of New York, is announced. They were members of the Stock and Gold Exchange, and their failure was caused by the recent rise in stocks.

The export of domestic produce from the port for the past week amount to $4,006,015, against $4,607,757 for the corresponding week of 1871. The following table shows the exports (exclusive of specie) from the port of New York for the week ending January 16, 1872, compared with the statement of the two previous years:

—The Philadelphia Ledger of Wednesday says: There is still an active demand for money, but we have no change of rates to note, which, on call, with Government collateral, rules at 6@6½ per cent., and on other approved collateral at 7@8 per cent. First-class three and four months' commercial paper is quoted at 7@8 per cent. Paper less favorably known is not in favor, and difficult to negotiate at 12@15 per cent. At New York the stringency has abated, and rates at 7 per cent. are quite common. Our banks continue to supply their customers as freely as they are able, and the ordinary requirements of business are generally fairly met either by the banks or outside lenders. Business is rather dull.

NEW YORK, January 18, 1872.

The gold market was dull, with all business at 108⅞@109. Loans were from 3 to 7 for carrying. Clearances $24,000,000. Governments dull and steady. Proposals to sell governments amounted to about $1,500,000 at from 108.67 to 110.95. The awards were about $900,000 at from 108.67 to 108.87. The bull speculation on stock exchange was hesitated during the early hours of to-day; during the afternoon, however, the tone of the market became bullish, and the entire list moved up once more, and the improvement on the lowest figures of the morning ranged from ⅛ to 1½ per cent. The greatest activity and advance were in the Union Pacific, Northwestern common, Pacific Mail, St. Pauls and Wabash. In regard to speculations in Union Pacific, it is still thought that parties in the interest of the Western Union are buying stock to control the election for the purpose of getting the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph. The rise in Pacific Mail was due to the purchase by parties who believe that property will be more valuable in the future. St. Paul stocks were favorably affected by the near approach of the time for directors to decide on a dividend. Market closed strong, when the highest prices to-day were made in many cases. Money easy at 5@6. State bonds dull but firm.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, January 18, 1872.

ASHES—Reported firm but unchanged. Common Soda, 4 cts: refined, 4½@4¾; Nitrate Soda, 5; Pots, 10; Pearls, 11.

APPLE BUTTER—Very dull; 50@55 per gallon for common to fair, and 60@65 for prime to choice.

APPLES—We can report a steady demand and regular sales at $4@3,50 per bbl for common to fair and $4@4,50 for prime to choice. Dealers generally regard good sound apples as good stock, and no decline, is anticipated, below present quotations; on the contrary, higher prices are expected.

BUTTER—There is no improvement to note in the demand and with continued liberal receipts and stocks steadily accumulating, the market is dull and weak, and prices barely maintained; we continue to quote prime to choice roll at 23@25, but there are few sales being made above 23. Low grade butter is very dull.

BROOM CORN—Is quiet and prices are nominally unchanged; however, an early improvement in the demand is anticipated.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—Small sales at 4@4¼ cts per lb.

BEANS—Sales, in a jobbing way, at $2,00@2,50 per bushel, the latter figure for prime navy.

CORN MEAL—Is quoted in a jobbing way at $1.85 per cwt or 80 cts per bushel.

CIDER—Is very quiet and the season is about over; prices, however, are unchanged. $5@10 per bbl, according to quality and size of barrel.

CRANBERRIES—Sales of eastern at $13@16 per bbl, as to quality; Sackett's still quoted at $17.00.

CHEESE—The demand is reported rather better, but there is no change to make in quotations; 15@15½ for Goshen, 14@14½ for Factory, and 13@13½ for Dairy.

CARBON OIL—Quiet and unchanged: standard brands, in car load lots, 21 cts—usual advance for small lots.

DRESSED HOGS—Sales at 5½@6 cts per lb.

DRIED FRUIT—Peaches, dull but unchanged: halves, 10@10½; mixed, 8@8½; quarters, 7@7½; peeled, 15@20. Blackberries, 14@15 cts. Apples in fair demand with sales at 6½@7½ for common to fair, and 8@8½ for prime to choice.

EGGS—While the receipts have been comparatively light within the past few days, the supply is fully up to the demand and fresh cannot be fairly quoted above 35@36. Pickeled eggs, 25@30 and dull. The feeling is pretty generally entertained that these prices cannot long be sustained.

FLOUR—A flour house, reports, in a cotemporary, that there has been an advance of 25 cts per bbl on most brands; that stocks are small and receipts light. If there has been an advance in this market none of the flour houses, except the one referred to, know anything about it—prices are the same now that they have been for 30 days. In regard to stocks, instead of being small, they are larger than they have been for several months, and the receipts have been unusually large for some two or three weeks. We continue to quote fair to good spring extras at $7,25@7,50; choice Minnesotas, $7,75; and good to choice red winter wheat, $7,25@7,50. Rye Flour, in small lots, $5.50.

FEATHERS—No. 1 live geese quoted at 70@73 to the trade and 78@82 in small lots. Mixed stocks 40@60 cts, as to quality and dull.

GRAIN—The demand for Wheat is rather better, and, with diminished receipts and offerings, the market is firmer; quotations may be fairly given at $1,45@1,48 for fair to good red, and $1,50 for amber—we are reported sales of white at $1,53@1,55. Dealers generally seem to be impressed with the belief that wheat will go higher, in consequence of the weather recently—constant thawing and freezing—being unfavorable for the next crop; however, it is rather early to commence prophesying yet. Oats, steady with a fair demand, but unchanged; sales, on track, at 46@47, for mixed to white—some holders are not offering at quotations, being pretty confident of better prices. Ear Corn is not coming in so freely, but, with a supply fully up to the demand, there is no change to make in quotations; 60@62—sale of some 500 bush, on wharf, at 60; in a jobbing way may be quoted at 65. Shelled Corn is very dull—mixed offering at 60, and prime Yellow at 62, that is by the car load. Rye is very scarce, and would sell readily at 90. Barley continues quiet, and, in the absence of sales, may be quoted at 75@80 for spring, and 85@90 for fall, according to quality.

GROCERIES—As noted in our last report, Coffee is considerably stronger at the seaboard, and the recent advance is fully maintained; it is true, at present prices, speculators, generally, are afraid of it, but a good consumptive demand is anticipated, and importers are reported as being "bullish" and indifferent about selling. Wm. Scott & Sons report the stock in first hands on Wednesday as follows: Galveston, 8,800 bags; New Orleans, 16,000; Mobile, 8,331; Savanna, 1,500; Baltimore, 16,604; New York, 60,806. Total bags, 112,041. Sugars are quiet and present no new features worthy of notice, and the same is true of Molasses and Syrups. Rice, particularly Carolina, is firmer, under the influence of advices from the South.

SUGARS—Refined—Standard Hards, 13; A, 12⅜; B, 12⅜; Ex. C, 12⅜; C. Yellow, 12⅜. Porto Rico Sugars—Choice, 11; Prime, 10⅜; Good, 10. Demarara, 11½@12. New Orleans—fair, 10; good, 10⅜; prime, 11; choice, 11⅜.

COFFEE—Fancy Rio, 26; Prime, 25; Good, 24; Fair, 23@23½. Java, 28@30. Laguayra, 25@26. Mocha, 45. Roasted Coffee, pure, 27. Lower grades, 24@25.

SYRUPS—Havemyer & Elder's, 65. White Honey, 65. Lovering's, 60. Durant's, 65. Sugar Drips, 75; Brune's, 65; other grades, 48@60. New Orleans Molasses, old, 50. New crop, 60.

RICE—Choice Carolina, 9⅜; Good, 9; Fair, 8⅜. Rangoon, 8. Patna, 8⅜.

SPICES—Pepper, 23. Allspice, 18. Cassia, 50. Cloves, 25. Nutmegs, $1.40.

HONEY—Sales at 25@30 cts.

HOMINY—Sales at $4,50 per bbl to the trade and and $5 in a jobbing way.

HAY—Continues dull, with a supply largely in excess of present requirements, but prices are substantially unchanged, $20@25 per ton, as to quality; we can report a sale of 100 bales of "mixed," on wharf, at $22½. If navigation should be suspended again, and the prospects at this writing are very good, hay will do better, but no improvement need be looked for so long as there is navigation.

LARD OIL—No. 1 Extra is quoted at 85 cts to the trade, and 88@90 in a jobbing way.

LIME—Perrysburg white, $2,00@2,25 per bbl: Cleveland $2,25; Eastern, $1,75.

MILL FEED—Sales, in a jobbing way, from store, at $22@23 per ton for Bran; $25@26 for Seconds; $35@36 for Middlings, and $40 for Oil Meal.

ONIONS—Dull but unchanged; small sales at $2,00@2,50 per bbl, as to quality.

POTATOES—Continue very dull, but there is no quotable change in prices; sales, from store, in a jobbing way, at 70@80 cts per bushel, according to quality.

POULTRY—Is coming in freely, and the market is overstocked; sales of dressed Chickens at 12@13, and Turkeys at 14@16.

PROVISIONS—Plain Bacon Shoulders, 7¼; sugar cured shoulders, 8½; ribbed sides, 8; short ribbed, 8½; clear, 9; sugar cured hams, 13. Dried Beef, 16½. Mess Pork, $14,50@15,00. Ham Sausage, 11. Lard: in tierces, 9½; in kegs and buckets, 10½@11.

RAGS—Sales, 4@4¼ cts per lb.

SALT—Is quoted at $1,85 per bbl, by the car load, and $2 in a jobbing way.

SHAKER CORN—13@14 cts per lb.

SEEDS—Clover Seed continues very quiet, but an early improvement in the demand is anticipated; we continue to quote nominally at $6@6.50. Timothy Seed, $3@3,50. Flaxseed unchanged at $1.80.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, January 18, 1872.

Trade in petroleum continues exceedingly quiet, and the indications at present are not very favorable for an early improvement. Crude at Parker is reported quiet at $3,90. Refined—January quoted at 22½@22⅜; February, nominal at 22⅜; and March at 23. It is not a little remarkable, in view of the diminished demand and large production, that the price of crude is so well sustained; however, operators generally are pretty confident that it must go lower, sooner or later—that it is only a question of time.

RIVER NEWS.

The river remains about stationary at this point with three feet in the channel. Weather continues cloudy and cold and the prospects are not very favorable for navigation.

The Bennett left for Brownsville yesterday morning on time, but it is doubtful about her getting through.

The West Virginia arrived from Geneva, on time, but Capt. Donaldson did not consider it safe to venture out again—she will go to-day if there is any show for her to get through. She had a good trip down.

The Elizabeth arrived and departed as usual.

The Argosy from Wheeling is due to-day and the Carrie Brooks from Parkersburg to-night.

The Kate Putnam, en route from New Orleans, left Wheeling on Wednesday, and should have been here yesterday. She has no doubt been delayed by low water.

The E. H. Durfee, from New Orleans, is loaded for Cincinnati.

The Abeona has the largest cargo of pea nuts ever brought out of the Tennessee river, some 2,213 bags or 14,000 bushels—of these 566 bags are for Isaiah Dickey & Co., of this city.

The St. Charles and Juniata are laid up at Cincinnati waiting for water.

The Sam J. Hale, recently sunk on the falls, has been raised and arrived at Cincinnati on Tuesday, where she will be repaired.

—The following circular regarding the equipment of ferryboats is published for the benefit of all parties concerned:

"OFFICE LOCAL INSPECTORS OF STEAMBOATS,
LOUISVILLE, KY., Jan. 15, 1872.

"The new steamboat law of Feb. 28, 1871, having required that ferryboats shall be equipped as passenger steamers, as in the judgment of the inspectors may seem just, according to the number of passengers carried each trip, you will at once cause your steamer to be supplied with the additional appliances, such as boats, barrels, axes, hose, life preservers, fire extinguishers, &c., as per schedules inclosed; and, in addition, will cause all wagons, &c., having on board gunpowder, or other combustible material, to be assigned and made to occupy a position on the decks of your vessel, for transportation from one point to another, so far as is practicable, separate from all other vehicles, and have the same covered with a tarpaulin, upon which shall be plainly marked the word, "gunpowder," for the safety of the lives of the passengers and others on board for the time being. Your immediate attention and prompt compliance with this order is requested.

"Very respectfully, &c.,
"W. F. REYNOLDS, JR.,
"GEO. A. HOUGATON,
"Inspectors."

—The Memphis Avalanche says: A few years since a stern wheel steamer called the Lorena used to run up and down the river, always taking great delight in trying to knock it out of shape and clear it of obstructions. Once the Lorena butted at President's Island, below this city, and did her best to smash the whole thing into flinders. Another time she made strenuous efforts to have our Memphis bluffs removed, so as to give her room enough to pass. Were the Lorena now alive her services would be invaluable as a tender to the Great Republic's Ducal excursion, to lead the van and sweep snags and sawyers from the channel, so that all danger might be avoided. 'Tis a pity that the Lorena died a few months ago, and thus numbered herself among the things of the past.

—The St. Louis Democrat of Wednesday says: Capt. R. C. Gray, of Pittsburgh, has arrived here on his annual pilgrimage, and will vote to-day as a stockholder in the Northern Line Packet Company. We are glad to see Capt. Gray in such fine health. He is stout, good-humored and single. He was on 'Change yesterday, and was accosted by many acquaintances.

—The Louisville Commercial, of Wednesday, says: The Blue Lodge, from Pittsburgh, arrived yesterday with eight barges of coal for this market. On her way down she lost one barge, containing about 11,000 bushels of coal, at Loughry Island, a short distance below Cincinnati.

The Tigress arrived from above yesterday, with a portion of the tow of the John Dippold, reported to have been lost at Buffington a few ago. The Tigress left last evening for Pittsburgh with a tow of empty barges.

Efforts were made yesterday, but without success, so far as we could learn at a late hour, to raise the flatboat, containing about 50,000 bushels of coal, which was sunk on Saturday last, at the foot of Seventh street. The boat belongs to J. N. McDonald, of Pittsburgh, and was the only loss he sustained during the recent coalboat run.

—"Doc Kane," of the Fleetwood, furnishes us with the following memoranda: Michigan on Buffington dam, about to break in two; Comet sank just above; seven coal barges and one iron boat sunk at the place; towboat Sam. Clark aground on the dam; and 4½ feet of water on Buffington bar.—Cin. Chronicle 17th.

—The Jefferson (Texas) Times, of the 4th instant, says: "The Lake City, lying sunk in front of this place in 3 feet of water, was sold yesterday, at sheriff's sale, to Boney & Brooks and G. W. Keen, for $600. She will be raised early and put in running order."

—Capt. Lew Greenlee and Mr. Jerry Sullivant have purchased the Fleta from Capt. F. A. Blanks for $10,000, and will, on her return to New Orleans, put her in the Bayou Macon and Tenas trade from that city.

—Capt. Thomas W. Shields telegraphed to New Orleans on the 13th, from Baton Rouge, that the Susie Silver left four hours after the City of Quincy, and passed her under way below Bayou Goula.

—Coal is selling in barges, at Louisville, at 15c. per bushel, and wood is selling, below Memphis, at $2.50 per cord.

FIRST MORTGAGE UPON
A Finished Railroad.
A small amount of the FIRST MORTGAGE 7 PER CENT. GOLD BONDS of the CHICAGO, DANVILLE AND VINCENNES RAILROAD, for sale at 90 and accrued interest, in currency. The mortgage is only for $18,500 a mile, and the line is finished and doing a large business. Investors who desire a THOROUGHLY SAFE BOND ON A COMPLETED ROAD can obtain full particulars on application to MESSRS. S. M'CLEAN & CO.,
61 Fourth Avenue.
Or to the General Agents,
W. B. SHATTUCK & CO., Bankers, ja16:d&W No. 23 Nassau street New York.

ADVANCE IN PRICE OF THE
Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Minnesota R. R.
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
To 92½ and Interest.
A small amount only remains of this issue of Bonds; and in view of this fact the Company has raised the price from 90 to 92½ and interest, henceforth.
The mortgage deed authorizes the issue of $6,600,000 Bonds; a modification of the plan of construction, shortening the line of road, will confine the issue to $20,000 per mile, making the total about six millions. The remainder of the Bonds will be cancelled by the Trustees.
Construction is now stopped on the road. The entire equipment will be hereafter devoted to increasing the earnings.
The receipts for the last five months from local traffic, over a portion only of the line, and while much of the equipment was in use for construction purposes, were as follows:
August receipts $67 244 82
September " 95 622 53
October " 73 602 58
November " 69 393 69
December " 63 650 97
The net earnings out of this amount were more than 10 per cent. on the amount of the mortgage indebtedness of the road applying against the portion in operation. The figures above given represent actual cash receipts, no charges being made for construction account.
As soon as the Bonds remaining on hand shall be disposed of, the security will be placed upon the New York Stock Exchange, and the merits of the Bonds will entitle them to take rank with any Railway Mortgage upon the Exchange List, none of which sell below par.
Detailed Report will be furnished on application.

STOKES ARRAIGNED.

Custom House Investigation.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18, 1872.

CUSTOM HOUSE INVESTIGATION.

By a party vote the letter of Beckwith was admitted as evidence, denying the statement in the testimony of Greeley that Beckwith's vote had been influenced in the Syracuse Convention by Conkling.

A table of statistics, showing the imports, per centage of collection, etc., was sent in by Collector Arthurs.

Surveyor Connell testified. He has been at every State Convention for ten years. There were six officers of the Custom House at the Convention of 1871 as delegates. Probably forty or fifty Custom officers were there not delegates. In his opinion no Custom House patronage was used to control the State Convention in 1871. Greeley's statement that one hundred Custom House officers were now traveling about is incorrect.

Mr. Cornell further said: Whenever he had proof or responsible suspicion of corruption in any officers, he recommended his removal, and Murphy always met his views. In the time of Grinnell he failed to get inspectors removed for bribe-taking. He never failed when he reported a case to Murphy.

Witness was handed a notice, said to have been posted in the Custom House, calling upon the clerks to pay two and a half per cent of their salaries for the past year, and signed by Murphy. He pronounced it a forgery. He admitted that there was a contribution for political purposes last fall. The officers paid about two per cent. on their salaries, but said it was all voluntary, and the officers felt a pride in paying to the support of the party. Has never known a man turned out for non-payment, though some ten per cent. object or decline from inability.

The witness, in reply to a queston from Senator Bayard, stated that William Case, one of his inspectors, was arrested on an accusation for allowing a cargo to be transported to a railway without examination. He was indicted and bailed, and he was removed to another position under Murphy; can not positively say whether the accused is now in office. When he first came into the office he found an inspector named Boswick, who used to make affidavits on information only, and get warrants for the search of premises on which it was alleged smuggled goods were concealed. He used to get his warrants from Police Justices. He also used to get a United States warrant. Boswick acted as general deponent to conceal others. Witness discouraged Boswick from this practice.

Mr. Bayard remarked that it was monstrous and dangerous that a State authority should grant a warrant for searching a man's house on an allegation of a federal officer.

Witness said the practice had latterly been unknown to him. It is not now considered necessary to have a warrant.

At the night session of the Custom House Committee Luther G. Tillotson, importer of telegraph wire, testified that he received three hundred and seventy-six bundles of wire per steamer in October last, which were three days in the general order store; was billed $129 26 for cartage to the latter and storage; went to his friend, the surveyor, and protested against the exaction, and by Gen. Arthur's intervention subsequently the bill was reduced to $101 66, which was still four times as much for labor and three times as much for storage as first class bonded warehouses charge; through fear of general order charges, has paid sums to inspectors to detain goods on the pier; he arranged to pay $25 to an inspector to detain his goods that came by the City of Washington on the 27th of January. J. C. Bloomfield, who has stores on Dey street, told him he paid the inspector in a similar way.

Mr. Howe moved for a subpoena for Bloomfield and an order to bring up the inspector who took the $25.

A long debate followed. Mr. Bayard protested that the inquiry would be blocked if gentlemen giving testimony of corruption were to be embarrassed by bringing up officers to refute them. The committee were not trying officers, but inquiring into the system.

Mr. Tillotson stated that it was with great reluctance that he stated facts, for it would bring on him and other merchants the odium of the officers.

On a vote, the motion of Mr. Howe was carried and the committee adjourned.

STATUE OF GREELEY.

A subscription was set on foot yesterday among the crowd assembled to witness the unveiling of the Franklin statue, for the purpose of procuring a statue of Horace Greeley, at the other end of the square. Six thousand subscribed, the list comprising, among other subscriptions, C. A. Dana, Mayor Hall, Henry Ward Beecher, William Orton and Samuel G. Courtney. At the Franklin banquet last evening Mayor Hall was cheered, and made, in response, a speech to the city of New York.

ARRAIGNMENT OF STOKES.

There was a great crowd at the Court of Oyer and Terminer this morning to witness the arraignment of Stokes for the murder of James Fisk. Stokes was brought to Court in a close carriage and arraigned. The counsel asked for a postponement, as they had not seen the indictment yet. The case was then adjourned till Wednesday next.

SMALL-POX.

Reports of the increase of small-pox in this city begin to excite alarm. The cases have increased in the past week from sixty-eight to eighty-three. The disease seems to be confined to no one section. Vaccination is rapidly progressing, but among the lower class of Germans, who object to vaccination, the contagion is making the most marked ravages.

G. A. R.

General Henry A. Barnum, who was yesterday elected to the command of the New York department of the Grand Army of the Republic, is said to be an adherent of the Fenton party.

CONVERSION OF HEATHEN.

The Woman's Missionary Society for the Conversion of Heathen held their annual meeting yesterday. The address says the Society wants money.

The Pittsburgh Bank for Savings.

It will be seen by the advertisement of this Institution that Mr. S. H. Hartman, having retired from the Vice-Presidency, Mr. John Scott was elected to that office. Mr. Hartman, however, remains in the Board of Directors. Also that D. W. and A. S. Bell, Esqs., late Solicitors, have withdrawn, and John H. Bailey, Esq., was elected to succeed them. The bank is in a very prosperous condition. Under its able management it could not be otherwise.

Simon Johnston.

The druggist at the corner of Smithfield street and Fourth avenue is so well know as a careful and reliable prescriptionist that it is scarcely necessay to annouce it, but then he is also a druggist as well as an apothecary, and gives his whole time to a diligent oversight and management of all the branches of his business, and draws his supplies from foreign as well as home markets. At his shop may be found many of the most approved standard chemicals and compounds from London and Paris. His habit is to avoid all trashy and worthless patent medicines and keep only such as are approved by his own honest judgment or have high medical sanction. He keeps many valuable preparations not to be found elsewhere, and the opinion prevails among his customers that his charges are unusually moderate. It is thus made clear that Simon Johnston's is one of the safest and best places in the city to buy drugs and medicines.

Local Inspectors' Annual Report.

The local Inspectors of the Post of Pittsburgh have submitted their report to Hon. Wilson McCandless, showing the operations of the Board during the year ending December 31st, 1871, as follows:

Number of steamers inspected, 127; amount of tonnage, 33,439 tons; boilers found defective fifty-three; boiler sheets condemned and replaced by new ones, forty-four; boilers that gave way under hydraulic pressure, three; mud drums condemned and replaced, one; mud drums repaired, six; steam pipes condemned and replaced, one; steam pipes repaired, nine; number of pilot licenses issued, 282; number of pilots refused license, two; number of engineer licenses issued, 256; number refused, three; number of engineers refused raise of grade, six; applications for second engineers refused, seven; number of master's licenses issued, ninety-one; number of steamers gone out of service, three; number of steamers added to the district, thirty-six.

Thirty-one new steamers of all classes have been built during the year, eleven of which are for freight and passenger business, and twenty are towing boats. A number of others are being finished. One towing boat, the Gray Eagle, was furnished with boilers made from homogenous steel manufactured by Singer, Nimick & Co., and the steamer "Iron Mountain," now finished, will be supplied with boilers made of Park Bros & Co.'s homogenous steel. Each of these boilers is made of plates stamped 10,000 pounds tensile strength. The report concludes with the statement that it affords the inspectors peculiar gratification to report that not a single life has been lost by accident to steamers during the year. The report is signed by George H. Atkinson and Samuel Walker, Local Inspectors.

ALLEGHENY'S HEALTH.

What Will they do About It?

The special committee appointed by Allegheny Councils to act temporarily as a Board of Health, and to prepare a plan for the management of the sanitary affairs of the city, held a meeting in the City Building last night.

Messrs. Moul, Stedeford, Slack, Walters, and Chairman McNeil were in attendance.

The first business considered was a statement made by Controller Porter in relation to the finances of the old Board from which it appeared that there had been paid bills amounting to $4,547 53; this left the amount of unpaid claims $1,535 54. The Councils had appropriated $6,000 for the Board, and the exhibit showed the balance to be insufficient to pay all claims.

The bills were were then examined, some of them ordered to be paid and others laid over for revision.

The committee next proceeded to discuss a plan for the management of the city's sanitary matters.

It was suggested that an act of Assembly might be passed, transferring the business to the Board of Poor Directors.

It was stated that the Board of Poor Directors might not accept the responsibility.

Mr. Walters thought the matter might be managed by the appointment of a Joint Standing Committee of Councils on sanitary affairs—to consist of one member from each ward.

This proposition elicited a half-hour's discussion in reference to the powers of the Councils in such a case. Ultimately the committee concluded to seek the advice of the City Solicitor on this point, and with this understanding adjourned to meet again at the call of the Chairman.

THE ALLEGHENY LIBRARY.

Working Under the New Arrangement.

The Allegheny Library, under the new order of things, has assumed somewhat of the brightness and attractiveness with which it was characterized in its earlier days. The Joint Committee, consisting of the old officers of the Library, and the Committee from the Board of Control, have been actively at work since the transfer was made to the Board, and the result of their efforts is evidenced in a renewed spirit of enterprise, which seems to have centered in the Institution. Recently the subscriptions to the periodicals have been renewed and now all the old familiar magazines and newspapers, which heretofore attracted readers to the Library room will be found there again on the tables and on file. In addition there have been added a number of new magazines and papers not heretofore taken, so that in respect to periodical literature the "Library" is thoroughly supplied. The managers further are now engaged in perfecting the plan for the necessary legislation which is needed to bind the transfer and make the new arrangement a complete success. When this work is completed they propose to make some efforts among the friends of the institution to increase the stock of books—although the present selection is a most excellent one, and will probably meet all demands for some time to come.

The Library has now been thrown open to teachers of public schools and all pupils over twelve years of age, under certain restrictions. Mr. M. B. Sloan is the new Librarian, (the former attendant having resigned,) a gentleman eminently qualified for the position. The Library seems to have taken a new lease of life,—and that room—and there is every prospect that the future will be one of great success.

POLICE NOTES.

Brief Mention of Criminalities.

Edward Bucks (colored) got three months and Wm. Seville (white) six months to the Workhouse from Acting Mayor Irwin yesterday for a little game of cap-stealing in which they were engaged the other day—the stores of Messrs. Greg and McClelland having been selected as their base of operations.

A valuable horse was stolen from John Shaw's stable, in Etna, Wednesday night. The same horse was stolen some time ago, but recovered.

Henry Clare arrived in Allegheny from Cincinnati yesterday morning, and proceeded to replenish his treasury by robbing the till in Mrs. Birchell's store, on Union avenue. He was detected with his hand in the drawer, when he broke away and ran. The lady ran to the door and called out. Fortunately Chief Clark happened to be in the vicinity at the time and gave chase. He succeeded in arresting Clare, and last evening Clare was sent to Claremont for three months.

Edward Page, intoxicated and obstreperous, got on a Penn street railway car last night and commenced to deposit his supper on the platform. The conductor objected to the performance, whereat Edward was wroth and drew a revolver. Officer Quirk was called and expressed his displeasure by arresting and locking him up for Mayor Brush's attention this morning.

Last night a suspicous looking customer who responds to the name of Wm. Weimar entered Evans department store on Fifth avenue, remained there a moment and then disappeared. Just then the clerk discovered the absence of his pocket book containing $93 and valuable papers. He gave chase, Weimar stepped out lively, the clerk ditto; through the White House saloon to Diamond alley and up that thoroughfare; the police then joined in the hunt and the fellow was captured. When taken into the lock $4 were found on him. The pocketbook was subsequently found in front of Reineman's saloon.

Amusements.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—There seems to be no limit to the power of Miss Maggie Mitchell's acting, capable, by the severe and thorough schooling through which she has passed, of conscientious conception of every phase of character and perfect rendition to the very minutest details of the author's idea. This was particularly noticeable to the very full, we might say crowded house that was present at the New Opera House last evening to see her in "Lorle, the Tiny Belle of the Canton." The simplicity of her acting fascinates, and she holds her audiences as if spell bound by her vivacity and piquancy and evinces a degree of honesty of purpose that seldom fails to please. The play was well cast, and all shared alike with her the honors of the evening. This evening "Jane Eyre," upon which occasion Miss Mitchell takes a benefit, and a benefit we predict it will be. Secure your seats early.

FIFTH AVENUE OPERA HOUSE.—The "Wandering Dutchman," a play written especially for Johnny Thompson, in order to display his versatile powers, will be presented to-night. Of the piece we know but very little, but we anticipate for him, it being a benefit night, a full house. To-morrow afternoon matinee and in the evening, the last appearance of Mr. Thompson.

LIBRARY HALL.—Wachtel, the great and magnificent Tenor, of whom the press throughout the country speak in the highest of terms, will appear at Library Hall, commencing Monday evening, January 30th. The following notice we clip from a New York exchange:

> In Wachtel are united the conscientious singer and the finished actor. Endowed with a voice powerful, mellow, round and sweet, which is entirely at his command, he seems, at times, the inspired embodiment of song; and all the delicate emotions of his soul are manifested so clearly that his hearers are magnetized by its spell, and with him they love, hate, or rush to the conflict. His acting possesses a charm only second to his singing. In person he is rather above the medium height, well proportioned, possessing small feet and hands—the tokens of a fine organization.

THE COURTS.

Yesterday's Proceedings.

OYER AND TERMINER—JUDGE COLLIER.

The case of Peter Loringer indicted for the murder of Jacob Duffield was continued yesterday morning.

Michael McHugh who was on the stand at adjournment the previous day was recalled and cross-examined; but nothing new was elicited.

Joseph Hall, a son of Mrs. Sarah Hall who kept the little store, testified that he was eighteen years of age; that he saw the movements of Finn, Loringer and Duffield that night; the witness after corroborating the others in relation to the boys and Duffield at his mother's store; and the subsequent call of McHugh, said that after the first little fuss. "Jackey came up towards my mother's house; McCue was there then and he got McCue to go and see who those boys were; McCue and Jackey started together up the river on the board walk; when they got near Loringer and Finn, Duffield made a kind of rush toward the two of them; they then got into a scuffle—Finn Pete and Duffield; I saw that Duffield was down on his hands and knees; then McCue and Peter took hold of each other, but could not say who took hold first; then Jakey got up and went towards the banisters, and he hollowed "help;" then McCue and Peter parted. McCue coming toward mother's house, and Peter then came down towards the store; when he got pretty close to where Finn and Jackey were, he said any one who would "go for Jack Finn, would have to go for him, too." In a few minutes after Jakey fell; he fell along the board walk; there was neither one of them there when he fell; I couldn't say how far off they were; I couldn't see clearly; it was pretty dark; it was about twelve feet from the store to where Duffield fell; I was on the road up the river from Duffield when he fell, about twenty feet distant; I know neither Finn nor Loringer were there; could not say whether he fell on his face or on his back; he was standing with his back toward the road, facing the river; he fell with his head up the river.

Coroner West was called, and testified to the fact of having held an inquest on the body of deceased.

Dr. J. M. Boggs, testified—Have been practicing medicine eleven years; made a superficial examination of the body of Duffield about ten o'clock of the night of November 4th; found an injury on the posterior part of the head, on the right side, about three inches and a half from the ear; the wound was contused, the centre of it being lacerated; there was some abrasion of the skin surrounding it; the wound indicated that the deceased had been struck with, or fell on, some hard, rough substance; what is known as a "clinker," might produce such a wound; made a post mortem on the evening of the 5th; found the skull intact; there was no fracture of the skull; found no other injury about the skull; found a number of contused wounds, where the tissues had been broken down, and coagulation ensued; think his death was produced by the injury, which caused a fatal shock to the brain; the wound would not have resulted fatally in a strong, healthy man; a person in his physical condition might, after receiving such a wound, rise and walk a few steps; he was between fifty-five and sixty, but looked older in consequence of ill-health.

Cross-examined—Deceased was subject to epileptic convulsions; he had been in the habit of taking intoxicating drinks; he would stagger when he was not intoxicated; he would be liable to fall when violent in these convulsions; rage, or excitement would superinduce these attacks; so would the intemperate use of ardent spirits; epileptic subjects sometimes die in convulsions, but not often, unless in connection with some injury.

J. V. Auth testified that he saw blood on the boardwalk at the place where the fight occurred, the next morning; this was about ten or fifteen feet from Hall's store, up the river; picked up a rolling mill clinker between three and four inches square; the clinker was lying opposite to where the blood was on the boardwalk; I examined it in the presence of Mr. Edwards; in turning it over it was dusty on one side, on the other was blood; something blowed off from it; I thought it was a hair; this was the only new clinker we could see; on the side of the walk, next to the river, there is a railing; the ground where the blood was found indicated that there had been considerable tramping about.

Wm. Brenneman, sworn—The witness was a little boy about twelve years of age, and although somewhat timid when put upon the stand, told his story simply and in a straightforward manner. In substance he stated that he went for milk about five o'clock; got the milk and returned towards home; when he passed Mr. Hall's house he saw Loringer and Finn standing at the door talking to Mrs. Hall; Duffield was standing on the board walk a few yards above Mrs. Hall's house; Loringer and Finn walked up to Duffield; Loringer took Duffield by the throat; then he held his neck over the banister or railing along the board walk; Duffield then cried out for "help;" Finn and Loringer knocked Duffield down; Loringer got a stone and hit Duffield on the head, and Finn kicked him; Duffield got up and walked away, and then fell on his hands and knees; he got up again and asked the boys what they were following him for, and walked to Mrs. Hall's. Witness left for home in three minutes after Duffield was struck on the head. At the time of the occurrence witness was standing about four or five feet from the parties; he (witness) had never told this story to any one before he came into court.

The Commonwealth here rested their case.

Thomas M. Marshall, Esq., then opened for the defense, and in laying down their line of argument stated that, with the exception of the little boy's testimony, there was no direct evidence that that a blow had been struck. The defense proposed to show that this witness' testimony contradicted that of every other one in many material points, and by reason of these contradictions and its own inconsistencies, was unworthy of credence. If that was so, then it was the part of the Commonwealth to bring forward, in absence of this direct testimony, such circumstantial evidence as would clearly point to the guilt of accused—such evidence as would admit of no other reasonable conclusion than that he had been killed by these boys.

The defense contended that the evidence produced did not do this. Then, on the other hand, they would show that Duffield was intoxicated that evening and in a fighting humor; that he, instead of trying to get away from the boys, provoked the fight; that no competent witness saw a blow struck; that Duffield was subject to epileptic fits, and that his death, instead of resulting from a blow, was produced by one of these spasms—possibly superinduced by his anger and excitement.

The witnesses for the defense were then called.

John Dempsey testified that the evening of the fourth of November, before five o'clock, he came over in a skiff from town with Duffield. There were several others in the boat. Duffield acted in such a way several times at to make two women who were in the boat "Oh Jake, you'll drown us." Witness could not tell whether Duffield was drunk or sober; after supper I saw Duffield leaning over the bannister of the board walk above Hall's; saw Finn a few yards distant; also saw Loringer and McHugh standing together; Loringer was a little noisy. Loringer and Finn started up together; I went to Duffield and wanted to take him home. Walked about six steps, when Duffield caught hold of the bannisters. I went a step or two further and met Rice. Rice went up above when I left Duffield. Rice called me, and as I turned around I heard a heavy fall; I looked and saw that Duffield had fallen; I then went down to the church, where I staid eight or ten minutes; met a woman there; then went back and found Duffield dead.

Cross-examined.—Saw Finn and Loringer on board walk above Hall's and Duffield leaning over the bannisters a few feet off. Witness heard the noise as he came up. He tried to get Duffield to go with him but failed. Then he (witness) left, and a few yards further up met Michael Rice; he stopped and talked a few minutes, and he (witness) then heard the fall; Duffield fell longwise on the walk.

Teddy M'Cauley, and Mrs. Mary McCauley who came over with Duffield in the boat from Pittsburgh were next examined as to his (Duffield's) intoxication. They testified in substance simply to his falling when getting out of the boat and falling on the bank, but would not swear positively as to his intoxication.

Edward Ford testified to having heard Duffield fall as he (Ford) was passing up the board walk. He fell backwards; saw him lying on the board walk, but thought he was drunk and paid no attention.

Thomas Hindmarsh testified that he met Duffield about five o'clock on that evening in Pittsburgh and that he was slightly in beer.

He had seen Duffield three or four times with fits in the works. The last one was about four years ago, when they were working in the mill together. He (witness) never saw him fall backward.

John Hindmarsh testified that he had seen Duffield fall into fits. He always fell forward. The last fit he saw him is was about three years ago.

The names of a number of witnesses were now called and no answer returned. The defense then ask for an adjournment until this morning, which was granted.

The Damage by Fire Repaired—No Delay in Filling of Orders.

The damage by fire done to the Broom Factory of Messrs. Mardorf & Co., near the House of Refuge, has been repaired sufficiently, so that the business community will not suffer any inconvenience or delay in having their orders for brooms filled promptly. The facilities for manufacturing brooms by Messrs. Mardorf & Co. are ample and complete, and the quality and material used has given universal satisfaction to the general trade; hence the continued patronage of their old customers and constant increasing of new ones is the best of evidence that the firm do the "square" thing by their customers. To merchants and dealers we would recommend this broom factory to their favorable considerations, knowing full well that once given a trial of their brooms will be the means of establishing a trade with Messrs. Mardorf & Co.

THIS morning we present the statement made according to law by the thriving and highly prosperous City Insurance Company, as furnished by John R. Gloninger, Esq., Secretary. This company, although among our youngest institutions, has been exceedingly prosperous since entering into business, and has made high reputation for fidelity and honesty in the conduct of its affairs. The losses it met with during the year were all promptly adjusted and paid to the very cent. The statement exhibits a very satisfactory financial health and strength which under the present judicious management can scarcely ever be impaired. We heartily commend the City Insurance Company to the confidence and patronage of those who desire to hold good and safe policies of insurance.

YESTERDAY MORNING the attention of officer Thomas Moorhead, on duty at the corner of Fifth avenue and Market street, was called to the actions of a man who was endeavoring to sell a check for twenty-five dollars. His appearance being suspicious, the officer took him before the Mayor, and the latter, retaining the check, had the man locked up. The check is drawn on the First National Bank at Butler, by James Campbell, to T. C Campbell. It bears date January 7th. The man gave his name as Anthony McCullough. He had been very contradictory in his statements as to the manner in which he had come by the check, first telling the parties to whom he was endeavoring to sell it that he had received it from his friends in Butler, and afterwards telling the officer that he had found it on Diamond street. During the afternoon a gentleman came to the Mayor's office and stated that he was T. C. Campbell, and that he had been expecting the check from his father, James Campbell, who resides in Butler, through the mail. He said it was unlikely that the letter containing the check could have been dropped by the letter carrier in the place where the man professed to have found it, as the carrier who delivered in his part of the city did not traverse Diamond street. McCullough is still in the lock-up, awaiting a hearing.

PHILIP HOER, P.M.

A Marble House in Pittsburgh wrote East to three different manufacturers of marbleized mantels to know at what price they would sell marbleized mantels by wholesale. Reply came, "cannot sell as low as W. W. Wallace. There is no use in making you an offer, we cannot compete with him." W. W. Wallace has had a long practical knowledge of the business, has all the advantages of steam power, and is the only place in Western Pennsylvania where marbelized mantels are manufactured. (All others sold here are brought from the East and sold second-handed.) His stock is the largest, prices the lowest, styles the latest, and workmanship the best. Grates, Fronts, Ranges and Hot Air Furnaces of the latest and most improved patterns, and superior to any brought here from other cities and at lower prices. Our office and warerooms, 319 and 321 Liberty street, first and second floors, one square below Grain Elevator.

N. B.—He is now getting up (to be patented) new machinery for cutting all the mouldings on fronts, &c., of mantels, which will give him further advantages and enable him to still reduce prices and expedite work. Purchasers will save money by calling at 319 Liberty street. W. W. WALLACE.

CONGRESSIONAL.

True Politeness.

EDITORS OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE: It may at least safely be said of good manners that they are a pleasing trait in a person with whom we may come in contact. One thing is thereby proven, that the mind may be toned to agreeability, though the heart retains its cunning, and not unfrequently, a hidden manner and sly ambition. This has nothing to do with a more refined politeness which grows with years under favorable circumstances from a naturally good heart; a pure and noble sensitiveness that has a religious indisposition to wound, and has thereby a power and a sweetness which is only comprehended and appreciated under courtly social circles and highly advanced gentility. When true politeness is the outgrowth of a noble nature, it can only be appreciated by a nature perhaps as noble, though it may be recognized by a great many persons merely as a little more than "common finish." Although Chesterfield's definition which makes it consist in a strict attention to small matters, has a large sprinkling of truth in it, yet to me it never seemed to go deep enough to tell us what the seed was from which the true flower sprung. Mere manners may be taught at any boarding school, or learned by any observant person coming continually in contact with good society. Yet, I have always believed that politeness, not the mere outside glitter in generalities, but the politeness that is truly organic and above all mercenary motives comes from an intellect stronger than most persons are aware of. It is easy to worry the vain man by a sally at some favorite hobby which he rides with great pomposity, and get from him some cutting remark about shallowness from which of course he thinks himself entirely exempt. This man may be polite. He may take well among men. He may have a fair education, but after all he has judged the world from his own mole hill, and has a petty local glory to which he may be justly entitled. The phrase in the dying hour of Charles the Second of England, so frequently alluded to as a high point in politeness, has doubtless been duplicated by common men, but never noticed, because they were common.

Of Fenelon the goodness, the holy sweetness, the mellowed manners that seemed bathed in sunset skies, the faith, the smile "so soft, so calm, so eloquent," the intellectual grasp, the fine spiritual analectic power that worked in unseen loveliness in that pure heart, could never be counterfeited by a base nature, for a base nature would have betrayed itself. So might you ask for a certain sweetness and find it alone in Jeremy Taylor. The manners of the man could only flow in such a never failing stream—that stream of classic and sustained religious sweetness that no one since his day has had the power to surpass. How comes it that we do not love a being for mere politeness, but often because that being is polite and good? Do not kiss me and steal my purse. Do not rob me of my honest name with Judas smiles and saintly airs. The merely polite may be heartless enough—but true politeness is true honesty; it rises from a good heart, good sense, good judgment, a love broad and glorious, a faith pure and strong, an honest name unsullied with low-born thoughts of petty display and glittering power. It is mere political jugglery in a mean man. In a great brave heart it is quiet, faithful, holy, happy—the reflex action of true thought upon an intellectual and moral plane.

ST. PETERSBURG is no larger than Philadelphia, and has far less wealth and resources. Pittsburgh will compare favorably with Moscow or Odessa, and the railroads and telegraphy of Pennsylvania are superior to those of Russia, both in extent of country and resources. We are far ahead of Russia in coal and iron, and there is no city in all Russia that can compare with Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in productive industry. Russia excels us in but two things, her population and her agriculture.

THE STORY OF A RAILROAD.

Cincinnati, Richmond and Fort Wayne Railroad.

This enterprise lately completed, deserves a passing notice. The city of Cincinnati is practically its southern terminus, and Mackinaw, at the straits of Mackinaw its northern, a distance of about 500 miles. This road was projected about twenty years ago, and has gone through the various fiery trials, disappointment and vexatious delays that many other enterprises have been subjected to. After the failure of four different presidents and their organization, at last the man for the emergency was found in William Parry, a plain, honest, unassuming Quaker of Richmond, Indiana, who was induced by his neighbors and friends to resign the various positions he held as President of local turnpikes, and various county and township trusts which his immediate constituency had conferred upon him to take hold of this important enterprise, and he has proved a good and faithful servant. After exhausting all the home aids he could bring to bear, he was compelled to seek assistance from other quarters; consequently, this honest, outspoken Quaker President made his way to the smoky city of Pittsburgh, and immediately called upon General Cass, President of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, under whose active management the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad is being constructed, now well advanced towards completion. He called at the General's headquarters, and inquired of one of the clerks in an adjoining room "Is George W. Cass in?" The prompt reply was, "Yes, sir," at the same time pointing to the General's office. Friend "Parry" stepped in, and accosted him thus: "Is thy name George W. Cass?" The General, laying down his pen, looking over his spectacles, eying his plainly dressed visitor, remarked, "I believe that is what my parents christened me." "Well I will tell thee what I came for; thee is building a Railroad from Fort Wayne, in the State of Indiana, to the Straits of Mackinaw, and I have been trying to build the Cincinnati Richmond and Fort Wayne Railroad, which my neighbors made me President of, in order to make connections with thy roads. We have proceeded about as far as our means will admit, and I have called to seek aid and assistance from thee, and I will tell thee, in the first place it is an important alliance for thee to make; thee wants to find an outlet to our section of country, for thy lumber and gypsom from Michigan, and I want thy money to aid us in making this connection." The General remarked the enterprise he was then engaged in absorbed about all the time and money he could well command, at the same time admitting his enterprise had great merit, and as the Pennsylvania Railroad has leased the Fort Wayne Road, and were then operating the Grand Rapids Road, he advised friend Parry to go and see Mr. Thompson in Philadelphia, friend Parry remarked, "Well, suppose he is not inclined, and says he has not the money, what then?" which called forth the remark from the General, "Oh! if Mr. Thompson wishes, he can build railroads without money." This rather satisfied the Quaker President, who departed with a "farewell, George, I will go and see John Edgar Thompson." A few hours passed, and the energetic Indiana President found himself in the City of Brotherly Love; with carpet bag in hand, made his way to the office of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Ascending the stairs, he found the President's ante-room, enquired of the usher, "Is John Edgar Thompson in?" The reply was, "He is in the adjoining room." Without waiting for the usual formalities, walked in, and placed himself in the presence of a commanding personage sitting at a table, with a pile of letters and papers before him. Without further ceremony, he asked. "Is thy name John Edgar Thompson?" All who know Mr. T. are aware he is a man of few words. His reply was "Yes." Our Quaker friend put himself in position, hands in pocket, broad-brimmed hat undisturbed. "Well, they tell me that if thee chooses, thee can build railroads without money, and if thee can, thee is the man I am seeking for." His frank, open manner attracted Mr. Thompson, who at once commenced inquiring into his venture and soon comprehended its merits to the system of railroads under his control, and soon dismissed the Indiana President, with the remark, "I will confer with our Vice President, and probably we can do something for you, so as to help thee through." The result was, in a short time General Cass, and Col. Thomas A. Scott, the great organizer, summoned the Quaker President to New York where arrangements were consummated with capitalists to furnish the means, and in a very few months this important link of the grand chain from the head of the peninsula of Michigan to the city of Cincinnati was completed under the management of General Cass, assisted by Hon. Jesse S. Williams, its chief engineer, whose ability for rapid construction is well known, and now being operated by the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad, under the general management of J. N. McCullough, Esq., and the immediate superintendence of Charles E. Gorham, Esq., who has shown eminent ability in the various roads under his control. We hope some staid old Quaker will turn up in Pittsburgh who will take hold of our Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston Railroad and complete it with or without money.

MELANGE.

A LARGE amount of Chicago scrap is coming to Pittsburgh. For the most part it is so worthless as to be not worth transportation.

SHEEP in Colorado have long fleeces in which the dust and mud of the summer accumulate. Then seeds of grass are wafted into them by the wind. When the rains of the winter fall, the grass sprouts, and thousands of sheep are now to be seen on the plains, carrying their pastures on their backs.

IN the year 1856, when the population of the Russian Empire was 65,000,000, she had but 450,000 pupils in her schools. In the year 1871, Pennsylvania, with a population of 3,500,000, had 850,000 pupils in her schools. If knowledge is power, then Pennsylvania must be more potent than the vast Russian Empire.

THE official paper of Lippe Detmold contains this advertisement: "The public are informed no credit should be given to his Serene Highness Prince Alexander Von Lippe (youngest brother of the Prince Regnant), for none of his debts can ever be paid, or at all events many years must elapse before they are paid." Not very "serene" for his Highness.

MR. JOSEPH HARRISON, JR., of Philadelphia, has received "the Rumford Medals" from the American Academy of Arts and Sciences at Boston. It is awarded him on the ground that the mode of constructing steam boilers invented and perfected by him secures great safety in the use of high pressure steam, and is therefore an important improvement in the application of heat.

A GENTLEMAN in Keene, N. H., recently received by express a package containing a watch, on the outside of which the sender had made the following endorsements: "Only a watch—bang it through—toss it round—drop it twice, at least. Merely a watch, simply a watch, knock it about. Second attempt in one week to get a watch over the road whole." The watch was received intact.

THE following able poem on "The Two-fold Province of Journalism," appears in the Boston Traveller:

My lady fair comes from the ball;
Glides from her carriage stately;
The steps ascends—I hold her train—
Bids me "good night" sedately.
My bearing makes me confident,
By that mysterious rustle,
When she retires, she first takes off
Then sits and reads her bustle.
That's why they like the "quarto" best,
E'en in the highest station.
Ah! two-fold power of newspapers
For women's reformation.
